PICK UP SURVIVORS

South Koreans Sink Communist Ship In Battle

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA (AP) — The South Korean navy reported one of its destroyer escorts shelled and sank a Communist North Korean patrol ship Saturday in a running gun battle.

The announcement said the action occurred in South Korean waters.

Three North Korean survivors were picked up off the east coast of Korea four miles from Kojin and 12 miles south of the truce zone dividing North and South Korea, the navy announcement said.

FOUR WOUNDED

Four South Korean navy men were reported wounded.

The action lasted five minutes and was carried out at 5,000-yard range, the Navy added.

It was the first reported sinking of a Communist Korean navy craft by South Korea since the 1953 armistice ending the Korean War.

It was not immediately known how many men besides the three survivors were aboard the North Korean vessel.

Ninety minutes after the engagement, three North Korean torpedo boats appeared in the area on what the South Korean navy described as a retaliatory mission. There were no subsequent reports from the scene.

UNDER GUARD

The navy told newsmen the three North Koreans had been transferred to land and were en route to Seoul under guard.

The North Korean patrol ship was sighted at 38 degrees, 28 minutes north latitude and 128 degrees

Lodge Plans To Give Up U.N. Duties

CHICAGO (UPI)—Henry Cabot Lodge said Friday he will give up his duties as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations when he begins campaigning actively for the vice presidency because politics and diplomacy don't mix. Lodge, one-time senator from Massachusetts was asked if he definitely intended to resign after he makes this country's presentation to the U.N. Disarmament Commission next month.

NO TIME SET

While refusing to set a timetable for his resignation, Lodge made clear he didn't think it would be "appropriate" for him to make political speeches as long as he is representing the United States at the U.N.

"When the time comes to do political speeches then I won't be United States spokesman at the United Nations," he added.

Lodge said no date has been set for the disarmament session but he did not think it would last through the month of August. He refused to guess who might succeed him in the U.N. job.

This news conference was dominated by questions on foreign policy, ranging from his views on South African policies toward Negroes to his opposition to the recognition of Red China.

Asked if he expected Russia to try to heat up the cold war in an effort to embarrass him at the U.N. now that he is candidate for national elective office, Lodge replied:

"We've always got to be ready for sudden violent action by the Soviet Union at any time," whether an election is coming up or not.

He added that he doesn't worry about the Soviets trying to embarrass him at the U.N. — "They've been trying to do that for eight years."

Lodge told reporters that foreign policy itself won't be a campaign issue, but "what is at issue is the relative ability of the candidates" to formulate and carry out that policy.

Judge Prevents Railroad Strike

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan Friday halted a threatened strike against the Cotton Belt Railroad with a temporary restraining order.

The Trainmen's Union had called the walkout for Saturday, charging the company violated its working contract by turning over switching operations at Hodge, a north Fort Worth yard, to the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, which jointly owns the facility.

Dunagan set a hearing for 10 a.m. next Friday on whether a permanent injunction should be granted. The Cotton Belt, of St. Louis Southwestern Railroad Co., 4,014 employees in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Storm Hits East Coast, Gains Fury

Gales Of Near Hurricane Force Pound Carolinas

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UPI) — A low pressure storm which poured rain on Florida for two days grew to near hurricane force Thursday and pounded the Carolinas coast in a northward sweep.

It was expected to pick up further strength—its winds possibly reaching hurricane force — on reaching the open sea off the upper North Carolina Coast early Saturday.

Gale warnings were hoisted as far north as Cape May, N.J., early Friday night.

SECOND OF SEASON

The storm, dubbed Brenda, was the season's second defined tropical disturbance. Its "eye," characteristic of the wind circulation of tropical storms and hurricanes, was located earlier Friday off the South Carolina coast.

It packed occasional winds in squalls up to 65 m.p.h. but winds generally ranged from 23 to 40 m.p.h.

An 11 p.m. e.d.t. bulletin from the Miami weather bureau located the center over Jacksonville, N. C., or about 50 miles north-northeast of Wilmington.

Wind gusts of 55 m.p.h. were reported at New Topsail Beach, and Southport, N. C. clocked winds of 62 m.p.h. Myrtle Beach, S. C. reported nearly six inches of rain and tides nearly three feet above normal.

The bulletin said the storm's forward movement was slightly increased from the 25 m.p.h. reported in a 6 p.m. advisory. It was traveling a northeasterly course which the weather bureau said should keep the storm center over land as it travels through North Carolina. It will move into the Atlantic off the upper North Carolina-lower Virginia coast shortly after midnight.

"The area of strong winds and rather heavy rains will gradually spread towards the northeast across New Jersey and into the eastern New York state area during tonight and Saturday morning," the bulletin warned.

Ike Names New Secretary For Latin America

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A new assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs was chosen Friday by President Eisenhower. He also reaffirmed U.S. policy of repelling any outside intervention in the Western Hemisphere.

Eisenhower picked career diplomat Thomas C. Mann to replace Roy R. Rubottom, also a career man in the foreign service, as chief of the State Department's Latin American division. Mann now is assistant secretary for economic affairs.

Rubottom, as had been forecast, becomes ambassador to Argentina.

In announcing the shift, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower wanted it known that it reflects no U.S. change in policy toward nations south of the border.

Hagerty denied reports that Rubottom's transfer adds up to Eisenhower displeasure over the way Rubottom has handled Latin American affairs.

He added that he doesn't worry about the Soviets trying to embarrass him at the U.N. — "They've been trying to do that for eight years."

Lodge told reporters that foreign policy itself won't be a campaign issue, but "what is at issue is the relative ability of the candidates" to formulate and carry out that policy.

Board Seeks To Untangle Oil Revenues

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Board of Education Friday referred to a legal committee the problem of how to help Acadia Parish untangle a question of oil revenues with neighboring Lafayette and Vermilion parishes.

Atty. Joseph Onebane of Lafayette told the board of a legal tiff, since, he said, Acadia Parish school board leased the land to an oil company in 1953 with the approval of the State Mineral Board.

The attorney, representing Lafayette and Vermilion, said the two parishes never joined Acadia in the deal, and Acadia collected $205,777, when Lafayette should have received $74,531 and Vermilion $42,343 of the total.

THREE-PARISH AREAS

The land leased was in a three-parish area, the attorney said, containing a 16th section which school boards share. He said Acadia was entitled to 43 per cent of the three-parish area, Lafayette 36 per cent and Vermilion a fraction more than 20 per cent.

Onebane said Acadia should have deposited the money with the state treasurer, where it would have accrued a four per cent interest. However, Onebane, said the board was not aware of this. The provisions for this special type of leasing were approved as a constitutional amendment in 1954, he said.

The amendment provides, "the parish school boards of parishes within which there lies a township or any portion of a township containing a 16th section (or any portion of a 16th section) shall be entitled to a portion of the proceeds derived from the sale of said 16th section or any portion thereof, including the sale of timber thereon, and revenues arising from mineral leases, contracts, royalties and all other revenues arising from sales, leases and contracts."

Ninety-Degree Weather Seen

Another day of 90-degree temperatures is on tap for the Twin Cities area, with the possibility of late afternoon thundershowers.

High yesterday was 93 and the low was 74.

Louisiana as a whole can expect hot weather through Saturday night with clear to partly cloudy skies.

The forecast for Arkansas is much the same.

PEOPLE FAVOR STEP

Davis Agreeable To Elector Plan

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie Davis said Friday he welcomes any chance to meet with southern governors on the issue of backing unpledged presidential electors.

Davis Appoints Commissioners On Sovereignty

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis Friday announced appointment of the State Sovereignty Commission and said it would meet by Monday to organize.

The commission, one of the major administration proposals approved in the 1960 Legislature, is designed to take charge of states' rights and segregation questions.

Members include the governor, Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, House Speaker Tom Jewell, Sen. Robert Ainsworth, Senate president pro tem and Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion.

They are members by virtue of their office.

Davis named eight members according to congressional districts:

- First District — Emile A. Wagner Jr., member of the Orleans Parish school board.
- Second — Walter J. Sutton, New Orleans.
- Third — Charles Vage, Houma.
- Fourth — J. C. Lasage Sr., Homer.
- Fifth — Frank Voelker Jr., Sixth — State Sen. Wendell F. Harris, Baton Rouge.
- Seventh — Stuart S. Kay, De Ridder.
- Eighth — Herman Taylor Jr., Natchitoches.

Davis said the commission would elect its director.

Belgian Troops To Leave Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Belgian commanders Friday received orders to begin complying with the United Nations resolution for the speedy withdrawal of their troops from the Congo.

Some 1,500 troops out of the 10,000 in the troubled infant republic were ordered out while others were pulled back to their main bases of Kamina and Kitona in the central Congo.

Prices Of Farm Products Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prices farmers received for crops and livestock rose four-fifths of 1 per cent in the month ended July 15, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

The increase left farm prices slightly more than 1 per cent low the level of a year earlier.

3 Men Saw Off Fingers To Get Cash

BURLINGTON, N. C. (UPI) Police arrested five Negroes Friday and charged them with an insurance fraud in which three of the men allowed companions to cut off four fingers of their left hands with an electric saw.

Burlington police said George Bryson, 28, took out two $1,250 insurance policies and one for $300 on the use of his hands. They said Bryson's brother, James, 19, then severed the digits with a power saw.

Bryson collected on the policies, authorities said, by telling the insurance companies he lost his fingers in a gardening accident.

Police said Thomas Tate and Walter Rogers heard of Bryson's "windfall" and allowed James Bryson to remove four fingers from their left hands. They, too, had taken out insurance policies, according to police.

The Negroes, in telling their grisly story, said Rogers also lost part of his thumb when he jerked his hand away from the saw during the "operation."

jailed in addition to the Bryson brothers and Walter Rogers were Tate and James Rogers, who was charged with aiding and abetting in at least one of the maimings.

Foe Of Ousted Rhee Winner In Korea Election

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—John M. Chang's Democratic party, long the underdog foe of ousted former President Syngman Rhee, won South Korea's post-revolutionary election Saturday.

Fighting, ballot box-burning and kidnapping marred the counting in Friday's voting as incomplete but conclusive returns gave the moderately inclined Democrats a solid victory which they claimed would turn into a landslide.

The returns from 166 districts showed the Democrats had won at least 120 seats in the new House of Representatives—topping the 117 needed for a majority in the 133-seat chamber.

Chang, leader of the Democrats and a former vice president, easily won his own seat from a Seoul district. The Democrats took 15 and possibly 16 contests in the capital.

The election determines the makeup of a National Assembly that is to choose a new president and premier. At stake were 233 seats of the dominant lower house and the 58 seats of the upper house.

Just as the Communist-threatened nation was rejoicing at the unprecedented calm and freedom in which about 9% million people voted Friday, at least five attacks were staged by students and others angry either at the conduct of the voting or early results.

COACHED FOR ROLE

Girl Aids Mother In Poison-Slaying

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A slender brunette mother Friday told police how she enlisted the aid of her 5-year-old daughter in the bizarre poison-slaying of her well-to-do farmer husband because he was "mean."

Mrs. Carolyn Sally Britton, 26, said she coached her daughter, Rita, in feeding her husband, Roy Richmond Britton, 31, a fatal dose of poison. She said the poison was disguised as vitamin pills. Mrs. Britton, whose 2-year-old daughter died "under mysterious circumstances" two years ago, calmly accused her husband of being "mean" to her, the children and farm animals. The attractive farm housewife, who authorities said had a record of mental illness, was held on involuntary manslaughter charges pending a grand jury probe.

Following her admission in the slaying of her husband, Mrs. Britton, clad in turquoise blue pedal pushers and a sleeveless white blouse, was given a lie test to check her story of the slaying. Police were also attempting to determine what she knew of the mystery death of her younger daughter in 1958. Results of the lie test were not revealed.

U.S. Order Compliance Is Forbidden

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—State Civil Dist. Judge Oliver P. Carriere Friday issued an order preventing the Orleans Parish school board from complying with federally-directed integration of the city's public schools in September.

Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremlion asked for the preliminary writ of injunction to restrain the school board from making any plans to reclassify public schools.

Judge Carriere ruled that his court had jurisdiction over the matter and that Act 496 of the 1960 Louisiana Legislature is constitutional.

RESERVES AUTHORITY The act reserves to the state legislature the sole authority to classify schools.

U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright on May 11 directed the school board to desegregate the city's public schools in the first grades when the schools opened this fall.

Gremlion contended the school board lacked this authority. Carriere's decision touched on the possible conflict between federal and state courts.

But, citing past cases, Carriere ruled "there is no objection to a subsequent action in another jurisdiction, either before or after judgment, although the same issues are to be tried and determined; and that because it neither ousts the jurisdiction of the court in which the first suit was brought, nor does it delay or obstruct the exercise of that jurisdiction, nor, lead to a conflict of authority..."

PROVIDES MACHINERY

Judge Carriere said that Act 496 provides the machinery for the integration of public schools in Louisiana. He said since the Legislature can act with "all deliberate speed" to admit children to public schools "on a racially non-discriminatory basis," the act satisfies "the letter and spirit of the requirement of the doctrine set by the U.S. Supreme Court" in an earlier case.

Attorney Gerard Rault, who represented the school board, said at an earlier hearing the board

Register Calls For Bids To Sell State Property

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ellen Bryan Moore, register of the State Land Office, Friday called for bids by Sept. 1 on 13 acres of state-owned land in a booming commercial area here put up for sale by the 1960 Legislature.

The state property houses the State Department of Highways' testing laboratory.

A new laboratory would be built on property near the state capitol where the new highway headquarters is located.

The original sale legislation sponsored by Rep. A. T. Sanders Jr. of East Baton Rouge Parish, drew fire because it proposed to sell the land directly to Sears, Roebuck & Co., for $388,000.

There were demands the property should be sold to the highest bidder.

The Legislature quickly amended the bill to provide for sale to bidders for not less than $400,000.

Mrs. Moore said Gov. Jimmie Davis, who would have the final say, could decide on acceptance of a bid or reject them all.

Bids can be filed anytime until 2 p.m., Sept. 1, when they will be opened.

HAS OPTION
The governor has the option of ordering all public schools closed if any are integrated by federal court order.

Davis said he didn't know anything about reports that some New Orleans parents might file a law suit to close all public schools. If the city's schools are closed.

The governor was asked whether he had promised attorney Emile Wagner, a member of the Orleans Parish school board, to close New Orleans schools before allowing them to be integrated. "We'll do anything that needs to be done," Davis replied.

The executive board of the Louisiana Municipal Assn., representing mayors, a day earlier called for Davis and the state central committee to invite a southern conference on the free election approach.

The LMA urged the public to tell Davis they want this done. Should the presidential vote of Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy and Republican Richard M. Nixon be close, the South under such circumstances might grab the balance of power. Kennedy has been attempting to contact Gov. Davis.

Weeks ago, before the Democratic National Convention, Davis said he was a Democrat and believed the country always prospered better under a Democratic regime.

The Louisiana delegation at Los Angeles favored Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson for president. While Johnson was a personal friend, Davis told a news conference, he did not know whether the addition of Johnson to the Kennedy ticket would help Louisiana or help the ticket in Louisiana.

"I didn't think he would accept the vice presidential nomination," Davis remarked. Did he believe addition of Henry Cabot Lodge to the Nixon ticket helped the GOP's chances in Louisiana, which voted for President Eisenhower in 1956? "I don't know that either," Davis answered.

The governor said it would be up to the central committee, which expects to meet around Sept. 1, to decide what to do about unpledged electors and the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

And he added the committee would decide whether the national Democratic ticket on the Louisiana ballot would be granted the traditional rooster emblem of the state Democratic Party.

The emblem was handed to the States' Rights candidate in 1948, supported by Louisiana. The Truman-Barkley ticket that year was listed under the donkey emblem.

Davis said any unpledged elector move in Louisiana probably would have to be arranged with petitions of at least 1,000 signatures in each of the eight congressional districts.

Davis said a meeting of the central committee would provide Louisiana's position in the presidential race.

Members of the committee, which guides party affairs in this state would have time to know the public's preference.

Davis said: "I know most southern states are interested in this question of unpledged electors, because of the fact they are not sold on the Democratic platform and most of the Republican platform."

had authorized the city's public school superintendent to "Study and make plans for an integrated school system this fall."

Study and make plans for a segregated school system this fall. Study administrative procedures to be taken if the public schools are closed this fall.

Gremillion said the school board was well outside its authority to even entertain plans to reclassify schools. The school board said it would not challenge the injunction if it were issued.

Wright's order said that "all public schools in the city of New Orleans shall be desegregated in accordance with the following plan:

"All children entering the first grades may attend either the formerly all-white public school nearest their homes, or the formerly all-Negro public school nearest their homes, at their option."

"Children may be transferred from one school to another, provided such transfers are not based on consideration of race."

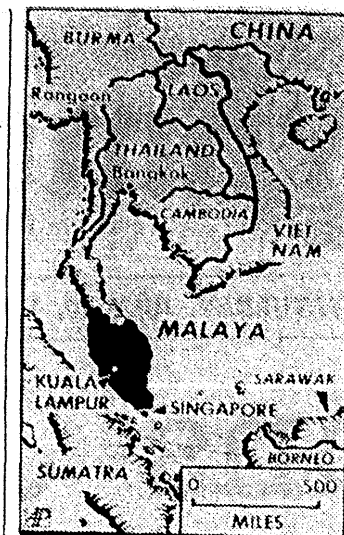

Cavert's decision said the United States Constitution "does not require integration; it merely forbids discrimination."

"Consequently," his ruling continued, "the Orleans Parish school board, for example, may decline to open the public schools in New Orleans and violate neither the order of the United States district court nor the order of the state court."

The judgement named all members of the school board, as well as the school board as a state agency.

Neither Gremillion nor Rault had any comment after the ruling, but school board member Emile Wagner, who helped draft Act 496, said he believed "this to be a proper and fair ruling."

Negro attorney A. P. Tureaud, New Orleans counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, filed a suit in federal court Thursday asking that Gremillion be restrained from preventing the school board from complying with Wright's order. A hearing on Tureaud's motion is set for Aug. 10.

Training

As the month wanes there is always a big time for the preparation of the National Guard to assemble at Fort Polk for active training. Two weeks' training is ready to start immediately there, states Major Gen. Raymond F. Hufft. Estimated attendance is placed at 6,500 troops and to swell numbers, an additional 4,500 members of the Arkansas National Guard will come to join the movement at Fort Polk.

More Trees

Jes' Ramblin' was wrongly advised by friends that stories of "Candle Trees" had been exhausted. We concluded this was the truth, but yesterday, when our place of residence near Northeast State College was with all occupants away, Jack Bagwell, of Bagwell Gardens, West Monroe, appeared with a sack that contained instructions how to supply needed "feeding" to the trees - to be. Directions were completely outlined and it was a courteous gesture that Jes' Ramblin' fully appreciates. He's what you call a "Good Scout."

Help Child

We are informed that 15 life-termers in the state prison in Walpole, Mass., are sending clothing, medical supplies and $8 a month cash to seven-year-old Chan Pul Chun at Hong Kong. The convicts decided to "adopt" this little girl who lives with mother and sister in a room smaller than a one man cell in Walpole prison. The father was sent to a communist forced labor camp away from his family.

"They talked to her and her husband will be off the base tonight," White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen, adding that Steed had been granted permission to live off the base for the duration of his stay at Lowry.

Draper said Betty told the officers that she had been married to Steed for about a year and a half.

Steed had made application two days ago, Draper said, for permission to live off the base. He added that the application undoubtedly would have been approved shortly in the regular course of events.

Office Robbery Being Probed

Monroe police are investigating the robbery of an office located in the Bernhardt Building which took place Thursday night. "Troy Conrad reported the theft of between $30 and $35 which he said was taken from a desk drawer in his office, which was locked.

Police do not know how entrance was gained to the office, but the desk drawer from which the cash was missing looked as though it had been pried open with a small screwdriver or similar tool, officials said.

Conrad's secretary reported that two desks had been ransacked.

slammed eastern North Carolina with high winds and torrential rains and inflicted heavy damage on the state's rich tobacco crop.

It was estimated that about one-third of the area's multi-million dollar tobacco harvest was still in the fields when the storm struck. Rain, measuring up to six inches, turned the ground to a soggy mass and high winds whipped the loosened plants from their beds.

The advisory did not project probable future course of the storm up the middle Atlantic coast. After reaching open water off the North Carolina banks, it could turn to sea. But it might hug the coast further north toward New Jersey and New York.

A turn out to sea was more likely, Miami forecaster Walter Davis said.

"The flatlands of north Florida and south Georgia were not enough to break this one up. We think the center will stay on the coast or a short distance inland until it emerges into the Atlantic over northeast North Carolina, then go out to sea, gradually turning more to the east," Davis said.

He pointed out the most severe sectors of the storm were remaining over open water.

Winds of near hurricane force were predicted near the center as the storm gained further strength late Friday night.

"Locally heavy rains will continue over the eastern Carolinas and southeastern Virginia this evening," the weather bureau said. Seas will be rough and some local flooding may occur as tides run above normal along the Carolina coasts this afternoon and tonight.

"Ships in the path of this storm should exercise caution."

The weather bureau said barometric pressure dropped to 29.48 inches at Sullivan's Island, near Charleston, S.C., when the center passed over early Friday afternoon.

The Charleston Weather Bureau reported .71 inches of rain in a 24-hour period and an additional 2.23 inches in a six-hour period. Many Charleston streets and low lying areas were flooded by rainfall and tides two feet above normal. Overall damage appeared slight.

In Florida, abnormal high tides and huge breakers battered 100 miles of Gulf coast. Four beach cottages were undermined at Treasure Island, near Tampa.

Jury Purchases Detention Home Furnishings

The Ouachita Parish police jury has purchased all furniture in the Green Oaks detention home from the state Welfare Department for $1,000, jury president M. W. Montgomery announced Friday.

He said that original cost of the furniture was about $2,000. The purchase resulted from negotiations between jury officials and Mrs. Mary Evelyn Parker, welfare director.

Built at a cost of $125,000 in 1957, the home was financed by the state during 1958, passed over to the parish in 1959.

Furniture purchased includes a walk-in freezer, two large freezers, dishwasher, washing machine, air conditioning units, beds, linens and other equipment.

Next meeting of the detention home committee will be held in August. Montgomery will set the date.

FOR NEW FISCAL YEAR

Board Approves College Budgets

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A member warned the Louisiana Board of Education Friday colleges and trade schools were overstaffed and the board might get in bad with the Legislature unless it curbed higher education expenses.

In other action, the board directed McNeese State College at Lake Charles and Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond to prepare specific plans for instituting graduate programs.

The board voted 8-2, with members George T. Madison of Bastrop and Raymond Heard of Ruston dissenting, to delay until the Aug. 23 meeting in Lake Charles any new decision on an architect for the new science building at Northeast State College in Monroe.

Madison had called for appointment of H. H. Land and Associates, Monroe, and rescinding previous approval of Joe Schirer, Shreveport, after Madison said Gov. Davis balked at Schirer.

The board had approved Schirer in a Dec. 12 meeting. Member Robert Curry of Shreveport said he could not believe the governor would attempt to interfere with the board's business.

Nash Roberts of New Orleans, a former board president, said the overstaffing could be overcome if college presidents and trustee school directors exercised their proper authority.

He suggested retiring faculty members when they reached retirement age, setting maximum salaries for all ranks of faculty members, and skipping promotions unless a college vacancy occurred.

"You're suggesting violent deaths for some professors," board president Joseph Davies of Arabi asserted.

Roberts said unless colleges made an effort to study the student-instructor ratio, which he termed low, he would not vote next year for extra staff members without a large enrollment increase.

The board, arranging affairs for the new fiscal year which began July 1, approved pay raises for presidents of the nine state colleges and tripled fees charged out-of-state college students.

Board members approved operating budgets totaling $26,911,252 for the nine state colleges, including all fees and other income as well as state appropriations, $4,407,374 for 27 trade schools and annual budgets for special schools teaching the blind and deaf.

Total college budgets: Louisiana Polytechnic Institute $3,850,483, McNeese State College $2,199,610, Francis T. Nicholls State College $871,253, Northeast State College $2,179,545, North western State College $3,114,659, Southeast Louisiana College $2,095,148, University of Southwestern Louisiana $4,797,239, Southern University $4,689,352, Southern Branch at New Orleans $431,068, and Grambling $2,682,895.

The board approved the new $11,356,717 school lunch program, trimmed under last year's program.

The total represents the compromise agreed upon by Gov. Jimmie Davis and state education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson during the 1960 legislative session. It provides a state reimbursement rate of 12 cents a lunch instead of the previous 14 cents.

A total of $3,672,800 for construction projects was approved for state colleges and trade schools.

The board voted annual distribution of per-educable funds, totaling $51,383,365 to parish school boards. The distribution this year was based on 943,243 educables.

Cash salaries of the presidents of the nine state colleges were raised to $15,000, compared with last year's $14,448.

The board also approved $600 raises for all deans at the colleges, and $533 annual raises for superintendents of the special schools.

For out-of-state undergraduates at Louisiana colleges, the board set the new rate at $300 per semester and $150 for summer sessions.

Fees for out-of-state graduate students were fixed at $350 per semester and $175 for summer sessions. The new rates go into effect with the fall semester of 1961.

The board voted to take no action regarding a school consolidation move in Lafayette Parish, after explaining it was strictly a local matter.

South Koreans Sink Communist Ship In Battle

4 minutes east longitude and immediately opened fire without warning, South Korea said.

The South Korean navy charged the North Korean Communists with making an intrusion aimed at disrupting peace in South Korea on the day after this country's parliamentary elections.

The navy declared the morale of its men is high and said it is ready to meet any attack.

Kojin is about 100 miles north-east of Seoul.

In September 1958, the South Korean navy reported intercepting an armed North Korean vessel off the east coast carrying espionage agents.

The navy said two men were killed and four others wounded in a gun battle at that time and the North Korean craft, a 20-ton wooden vessel, was badly damaged. A spokesman said then that he did not know whether the North Korean boat sank.

Only a week ago a U.N. Command supply ship was attacked and damaged by an unidentified vessel off the west coast of South Korea. One Korean civilian crewman was killed. The ship was manned by U.S. Army men and Korean civilian personnel. The U.N. craft was returning to the port of Inchon after a supply run when the attack occurred.

Last May 4 the South Korean navy said one of its frigates had repelled a North Korean torpedo boat attack. South Korea charged that North Korean action was designed to cover an attempt to land Red agents in South Korea.

Office Robbery

Being Probed

Monroe police are investigating the robbery of an office located in the Bernhardt Building which took place Thursday night.

"Troy Conrad reported the theft of between $30 and $35 which he said was taken from a desk drawer in his office, which was locked.

Police do not know how entrance was gained to the office, but the desk drawer from which the cash was missing looked as though it had been pried open with a small screwdriver or similar tool, officials said.

Conrad's secretary reported that two desks had been ransacked.

TO GOP NOMINEE

Rocky Promises All-Out Support

CHICAGO (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Friday pledged his all-out support to Richard M. Nixon in the presidential race because the GOP nominee has shown he is "willing to plant his standard in the ground and stand by it."

The New York governor said Nixon in his wildly-acclaimed acceptance speech went even further than the party's platform makers in embracing the policies blue-printed in the 14-point Nixon-Rockefeller manifesto.

Rockefeller, who once hoped a draft in his behalf would derail Nixon's bandwagon, made the statement at a news conference before flying back to New York to begin laying plans for the GOP campaign in that pivotal state.

The governor underscored his endorsement of the Nixon-Lodge ticket by postponing his flight home long enough to attend a luncheon given by the vice president hosted by Republican governors and senators. Rockefeller said Thursday he would pass up the luncheon.

Rockefeller said he would start work immediately planning the New York campaign because "if we carry New York state, it will be the most important thing we can do."

With the platform written here this week, he said, "I think we've got a chance of carrying New York state."

He pledged that he would campaign for Nixon and the vice presidential nominee, U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, wherever the Republican National Committee and state chairmen need and want him.

The governor refused to discuss his personal political plans. He would not say whether he will seek re-election in 1962 or whether he might seek the party's presidential nomination four years hence.

In answer to a question about possible presidential aspirations, Rockefeller fondled a big red, white and blue Nixon button on his lapel—apparently suggesting that for the present at least, he's a Nixon man.

He ducked a question as to whether he would like a cabinet post by insisting a President must be free to choose his own cabinet.

Rockefeller said Lodge "certainly" strengthened the GOP ticket because "the international threat is the major concern today."

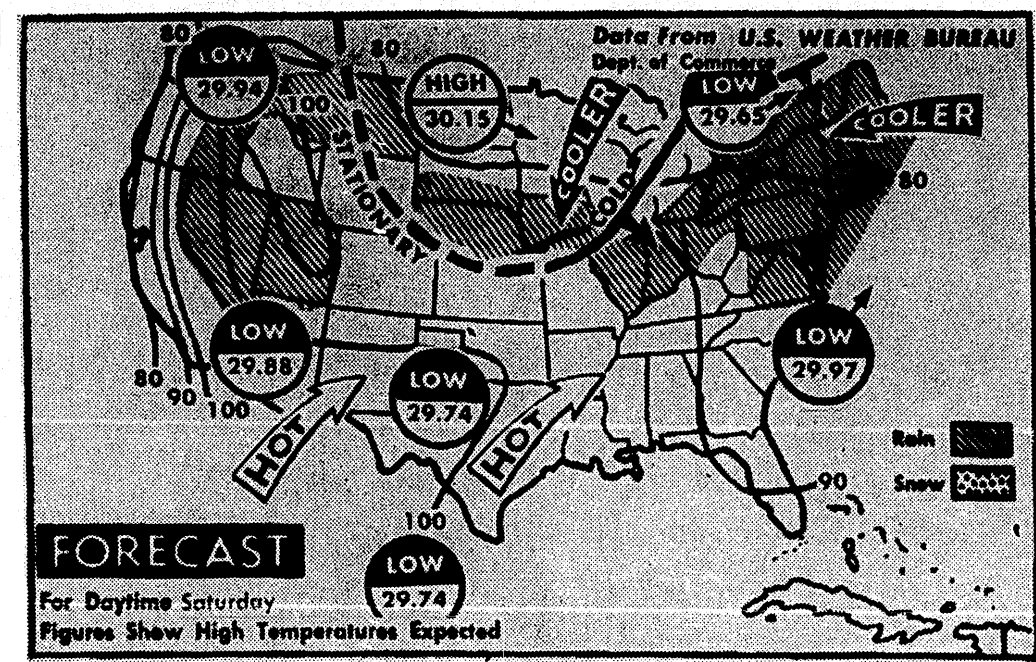

He discounted fears voiced by some Midwestern Republicans that the selection of Lodge over a midwesterner would hurt the party's chances in the farm belt.

The governor gave Nixon a pat on the back for speaking out on major issues before the convention started and cancelling meetings with more than a score of delegations while he brought recalcitrant Republicans into line on a strong, liberal platform.

"That, to me, showed the caliber of the man that was willing to plant his standard in the ground and stand by it," he said.

Rockefeller said Nixon's acceptance address was "a superb speech—one of the great speeches of this country." He said it reassured many people who were not quite sure what Nixon would do when he was "free from the shackles imposed on the vice presidency . . . and free to speak his own mind."

Rockefeller said he saw no great gulf between the new platform and President Eisenhower's policies—"just enough departures to meet new problems effectively and courageously."

EXPLODES IN SKY

U.S. Man-In-Space Missile Test Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (UPI) — An Atlas missile carrying the first working model of a U.S. "man-in-space" capsule exploded in a rain-swept sky 65 seconds after launch Friday.

The instrument-packed but unmanned Project Mercury capsule apparently plunged into the Atlantic with the fiery wreckage of the big ICBM.

Had one of America's seven astronauts been riding the chamber of the bell-shaped, top capsule he might have escaped. Scientists learned that much, but little more.

Radio contact with the capsule mounted on the nose of the Atlas was lost slightly more than a minute after blast-off at 9:13 a.m. e.d.t.

Everything till that instant was normal, but an Air Force ballistic missile officer announced that "some event occurred of a catastrophic nature—probably an explosion at 65 seconds."

Such an explosion probably blew the Atlas to bits and sent its wreckage and the heat-resistant capsule showering into the ocean at a distance of 4 to 12 miles off Cape Canaveral. Boats and helicopters searched for wreckage throughout the day.

Surprisingly, the Atlas was fired in a driving wind and rainstorm—the most miserable weather for a launching in memory of veteran cape observers. The Atlas was visible in the darkness and rain for only a few seconds before boring into dense clouds.

The seven astronauts—two of them with their families—watched the launching from strategic observation points. Interviews were not permitted with the men, one of whom is scheduled to take the first "space ride" in a similar capsule propelled by a Redstone missile down the Atlantic Missile range within a few months.

Project Mercury Director Robert Gilruth said the weather apparently had nothing to do with the mishap. But asked if a manned capsule would be launched under such condition, he replied "absolutely not."

He conceded the shot "far from lived up to expectations" but added that it demonstrated "why step by step proofs are necessary, why escape systems are necessary, before we can go into manned space flight."

Gilruth and other officials said a "sensing system" within the capsule would have warned an astronaut of trouble within the rocket "in plenty of time" to trigger an escape mechanism. Had the capsule been fully equipped, he said, an "alert sensor would have fired escape rockets to eject the capsule and send it back to earth by parachute."

Officials said the test, which was to have shot the capsule 1,500 statute miles over the Atlantic "will be repeated at an early date."

Death Rate Drop Slight On Highways

CHICAGO (UPI)—Highway accidents during the first six months of 1960 killed 10 fewer persons than during the same period last year—out of a total of more than 17,000, the National Safety Council has reported.

The death rate (fatalities per 100 million miles of travel) set a record low for January-June, dropping from 5.1 in 1959 to 5.0 in 1960 despite a 3 per cent rise in highway travel.

In figures released Thursday, the council said 17,090 persons died in traffic between January and June 1960. The 1959 January-June total was 17,100. By comparison, totals were 16,315 in 1958 and 17,943 in 1956. The year's total in 1959 was 37,800.

The council estimated disabling injuries from traffic during January-June 1960 at 600,000.

New Hampshire led 27 states reporting decreases during January-June this year, dropping 30 per cent. Rhode Island highway deaths dropped 30 per cent.

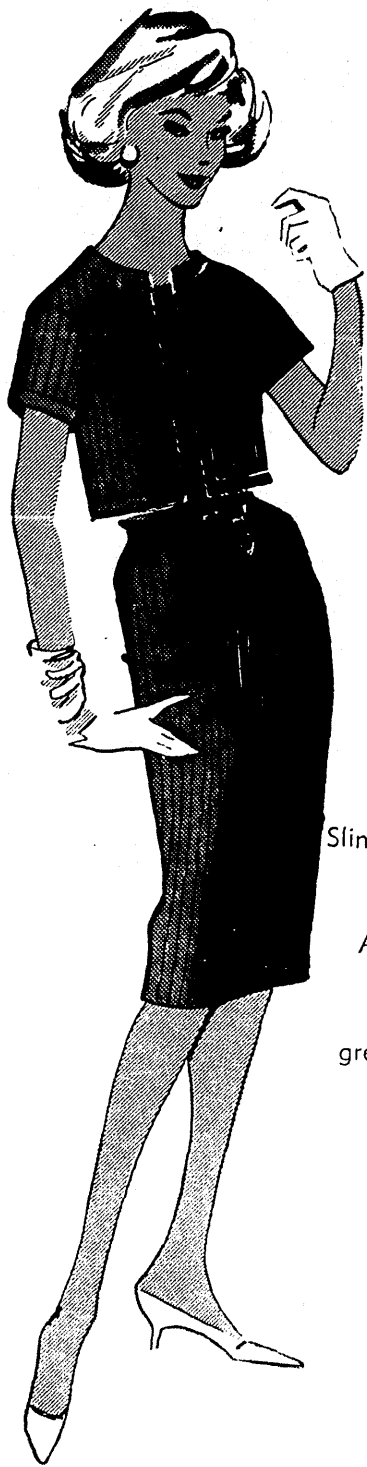

Among cities of more than 20,000 population, Omaha, Neb., showed a six-month decrease of 63 per cent in traffic fatalities, followed by Grand Rapids, Mich., 56; Worcester, Mass., 50; Miami, 43; Oakland, Calif., 41; Houston, Texas, and El Paso, Texas, both 38, and Birmingham, Ala., 33.

Rumors Fly On Major Shakeup Of Cuba Regime

HAVANA (UPI)—Fidel Castro's admission that he was "unwell," plus his brother Raul's dash home from Cairo added fuel Friday to rumors of a major shake-up in the Cuban government, with the premier taking a back seat.

There were other rumors that Fidel Castro and one of his top men, Communist-oriented Maj. Ernest "Che" Guevara, were engaged in a struggle for power.

Castro has designated his brothers as his heirs-apparent, and in the last six months the latter has grown so in prestige that it becomes more common each day to hear some one of importance described as "one of Raul's boys."

One prominent diplomat watching Cuban developments said that "every revolution from France onward has internal disputes at the top and Cuba's is no different."

Guevara, economic chief of the revolutionary government, is believed to wield power second only to the Castro brothers.

Two-Day Strike Of Sanitation Workers Ends

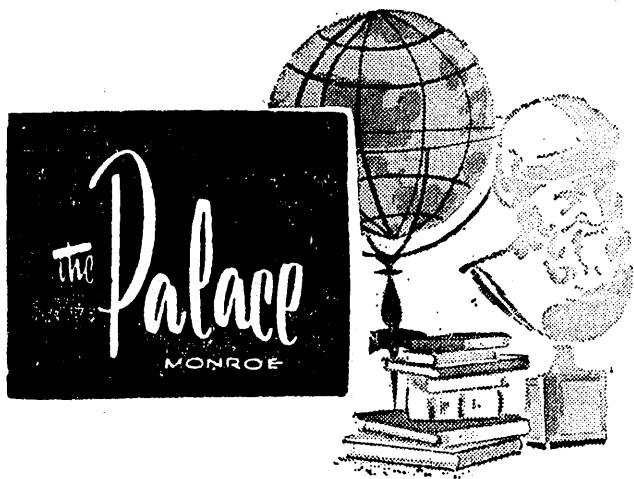

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sanitation men Friday dug into about 16,000 tons of trash and garbage that accumulated during their two-day strike.

All but 17 of the Sanitation Department's 9,600 men showed up to tackle the huge removal job. Some of the litter on the sidewalks overflowed into the streets at points.

The men bowed to a back-to-work plea Thursday from John J. Delury, head of the 10,000-member United Sanitation men's Association, Local 831, of the Teamsters Union.

Delury required police protection from union members shelling "sell-out" after he urged them to go back to work at a meeting in St. Nicholas Arena. Dissidents, however, were among those reporting to work for the midnight to 8 a.m. shift Friday.

The Sanitation Department set up a schedule for overtime work Friday night, Saturday night and possibly Sunday to remove the tons of refuse.

Softer 'Rights' Plank

Based on the civil rights plank, and in many other ways, the Republican platform is far more pleasing to the south and to conservatives throughout the nation than was that adopted by the Democrats.

The Democratic convention, prodded sharply by socialistic labor leaders, deliberately sought, in its platform, to shave off the south. That was the announced purpose of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. leaders at a prior meeting and the resolutions adopted by it at that meeting were adopted, in many instances, word for word by the Democratic convention.

In addition, the Democratic convention went even beyond the demands of some Negro and white integration organizations in its sweeping dictatorial pledges and promises.

The whole atmosphere of the Republican convention was different. In it the speakers mentioned such things as a free America, freedom of individuals, free enterprise and constitutional provisions, all of which were carefully avoided by the Democratic speakers. The Republican meeting was more like a convention of fundamental Americans—not like a convocation of Utopian dreamers out hunting for a "new frontier" along the old and discredited path of socialism.

Delegates at the Republican convention were more independent. They refused to accept in toto the platform drawn up by Presidential Nominee Richard M. Nixon and New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Of course, no pro-integration plank is pleasing to the south.

Prior to the Republican convention, leaders said they would try to set up a realistic civil rights plank—one of responsibility; meaning one that could be put into effect and not used merely to wave around in inciting both races. To some extent that was done.

Both parties, from the political standpoint, necessarily stood 100 per cent behind integration. Both parties, from the political standpoint, necessarily had to present a ticket—and this includes the vice presidency as well as the presidency—which would stand behind the platform integration plank.

All southern delegations to the two conventions knew in advance that these things could not be prevented. But, as between the two planks, there definitely is a choice.

Fundamental differences in the two planks are these:

The Republican plank confines its integration program chiefly to fields where federal jurisdiction has been duly established. The Democratic plank is one that pledges the party to seek integration in private as well as public facilities, in private schools and organizations as well as those which are under federal court jurisdiction.

The Democratic platform specifically includes lunch counters as a field for integration. The Republican plank does not specifically mention the sit-in demonstrations, but does uphold "peaceable assembly" of people in seeking what they consider to be their rights. (Assembly, when it violates law, no longer can be described as "peaceable," legally or otherwise, but this specific point is not dealt with.)

The Democratic platform specifically states that the Party will support legislation to establish a federal Fair Employment Practices Commission to "secure for everyone the right to equal opportunity for employment," meaning private employment as well as federal employment. The Republican plank does not mention the phrase

"Fair Employment Practices Commission," nor does it use the letters "FEPC." It pledges itself to further integrated employment under federal contracts, but not private.

The Democratic platform specifically sets 1963 as the time when every segregated school in the nation must have taken first step compliance toward integration by having submitted to federal courts a plan to that end. In other words, even if not called on through a suit or by court order to submit an integration plan, every presently segregated school district must do so "by 1963," which could mean within 18 months. The Republican platform specifically denounces the setting of any "target date" as impractical—actually it is impractical in both supplying what might be delay not demanded in some districts, or through insisting on speed that could not be complied with.

The Democratic platform says that the Party will do everything possible to eliminate any and all literacy tests as qualifications for voting, and all poll taxes. In other words, a person who cannot read or write and does not have sufficient education even to try to inform himself on the issues at stake in an election, still would be permitted to vote. This would specifically strike down the constitutional amendment against voting by illiterates which was submitted to the people by the Davis Legislature and will be voted on in November.

The Republican platform says that six years of public schooling should be considered literacy qualifications for voting.

The atmosphere of the Democratic civil rights plank is to ram every phase of public and private life down the throats of the people by federal compulsion as quickly as possible. The atmosphere of the Republican plank is to proceed fully in enforcement of federal judiciary decisions, to integrate public facilities, but not to seek to force integration into private activities and facilities that have never been brought under federal jurisdiction.

The greater common sense and acceptance of responsibility and realism in the Republican platform rests fundamentally on the strong fight made by Southern delegates, especially Tom Stagg, Jr., of Shreveport, and on the fairness of approach by Charles Percy, one of the up and coming young Illinois businessmen-Republicans, who was chairman of the Platform Committee. Each recognized the problems of the other, each treated the other as a gentleman and with courtesy.

Mr. Percy stated on a television interview that "racial discrimination many times is far more cruel and subtle in the North than in the South. I live in the North but I was born in the South and I know."

Mr. Percy further stated publicly that he felt there were some things in the Nixon-Rockefeller agreement on civil rights that "should not be in the plank." Mr. Stagg was frank in stating publicly that there were some things in the Rockefeller-Nixon proposals as put before the Committee that probably should be in the plank, from the political standpoint.

In the end the plank was not all that Mr. Nixon and Mr. Rockefeller wanted and it was not all that Mr. Stagg and others of the South wanted. But it is, in the light of integration as a fact and as an essential part of major party political courses, far more realistic and far less ruthless than the Democratic plank. The G.O.P. made some real concessions to the South. The Democrats spurned all Southern pleas.

New York Discrimination

Segregation Said To Be Severe In State Which First Adopted Interracial Laws; Problem In South

Both conventions have witnessed splits over what is euphemistically referred to as "Civil Rights." Civil Rights are those laws which protect the individual in his rights under the Constitution of the United States and the constitutions of the various states. The amendments to the Constitution, particularly the first ten and the fourteenth, deal with such rights.

In many states, no issues arise under this heading. In others, where the population is very mixed racially, there are all sorts of discriminatory measures. The South has its Negro problem which in the South continues to be a serious matter. In some northern states, such as New York, where there are large Negro and Puerto Rican populations, discrimination is severe. In New York, also, social and job discrimination on a religious basis presents a problem. In California, there is discrimination not only against Negroes but also against Mexicans. Some states have laws against what is termed miscegenation. Jews and Negroes have organized defense media to protect themselves against those who, because of race, religion or color, regard them as secondary persons. In New York state and elsewhere, FEPC laws have been passed which forbid the rejection of persons for employment because of race, color or religion. On the other hand, in some states, such as Arkansas, for instance, a defensive effort has been made to attack the concept of enforced desegregation. The Ku Klux Klan and similar organizations organize to fight for white superiority.

The Supreme Court of the United States has intervened in this situation with decisions to the effect that a citizen is a citizen and is entitled to equal rights and benefits. These decisions forbid segregation as regards schools. This then is the situation as it affects both parties.

I have tried to write the above statement objectively as a conflict of ideas, unrelated to any selfish interests or motives on any side.

Now let us come to the politics of it. In such northern states as New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and there are others, the Negro vote is extremely important. In New York and Illinois, prior to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Negroes were usually Republicans because Lincoln freed the slaves. Since Roosevelt, the Negroes have been voting Democratic. The Democrats want to hold the Negro vote; the Republicans want to recapture it.

Others who regard themselves as minority groups generally support the Negro position because they feel that unless there is absolute equality for all citizens under the law, discriminatory actions may be taken against them with impunity.

This then is the problem that both parties faced in their 1960 conventions. The Democrats met it head on and wrote the toughest Civil Rights plank into their platform that has ever come out of a convention. This plank was resented by the southern delegates, but they did not leave the convention. When Lyndon Johnson accepted the vice presidency and ran on the platform, the southerners felt that they had been betrayed by their party.

The Republicans believed that strategically this gave them a wonderful opportunity to win the southern states as Herbert Hoover did in 1928. However, Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who has for several years been working on these problems, announced his intention of making a floor fight on the platform which he said he regarded as more important than the candidate, although platforms are forgotten immediately after the election. The one Republican candidate for president, Richard Nixon, desiring to avoid a floor fight at the convention, which might really split the Republican party, rushed up to New York, held a secret meeting with Governor Rockefeller and out of it came a fourteen point guide-line to the Platform Committee. This fourteen point document contains a civil rights plank as conclusive as the Democratic one. The tone of the convention was antagonistic to this decision both from the standpoint of practical politics and from the standpoint of States Rights which the Republicans claim as their principle. The spontaneous reception given to Senator Barry Goldwater indicated an antagonistic reaction to the fourteen points.

In a word, the Negro issue developed into the principal question in both political conventions. The Negro vote in the North has apparently become politically more significant than the old Solid South. Also at issue is the question as to whether the Negro vote in the South is not growing so large that the Washington-based politicians of both parties take that into consideration.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Spots In Eyes

No Treatment Known; They Go Away Or You Get Used To Them

Have you been having swelling or numbness of the fingers of one hand? In addition, do you have severe pains in the shoulder? What have you been treating it for? Arthritis? Neuritis? Bursitis? And nothing seems to help?

Unless you go to your doctor and unless he makes the correct diagnosis, you may go on having discomfort indefinitely. Read the following letter, received today from Mrs. E. of California, and you will understand:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My shoulder has been bothering me sporadically for at least eight years. Several times I had the shoulder, arm, and even my teeth checked but nothing was found. (However, none of the doctors suggested X-rays.)

During the past year the pain in the shoulder has increased accompanied by swelling of the fingers, especially the middle one. This condition is at its worst in the mornings and gradually gets better as the day progresses. Sometimes it feels as though the "core" of my arm is asleep; many nights I'm awakened by the discomfort accompanying loss of circulation.

This has been worrying me as my grandmother is crippled with arthritis, and my father has bursitis. I've expressed these fears to the doctors who examined me with the result (I sincerely believe) that they dismissed my symptoms as "hysteria."

Recently I went to a doctor I should have consulted long ago: a neurologist. He diagnosed my condition as "Sclerous Anticus Syndrome." He recommended operation. He would not say if this condition is serious and will lead to something critical. I am not in favor of any operation unless imperative. What do you suggest? I will be grateful for your opinion, Mrs. E.

COMMENT: The syndrome which you mention is often overlooked. In your case, the history shows that you have suffered for eight years without relief. That, more than anything else, indicates that you will get nowhere with medical treatment alone. The sclerous anticus muscle (in the shoulder region) is pressing too tightly on a large nerve that goes down your arm. This is causing the numbness, swelling and pain.

The operation is not a serious one. Its purpose is to relieve the pressure on the nerve. In capable hands you have nothing to fear. If I were you, I'd have it done, but I can't speak for anyone else. In your case, however, the choice seems evident.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have been having little black spots in my eyes with "tails on them." They resemble cobwebs. I have about seven in each eye. I have had them for about a year.

My eye specialist says they are not important and will go away in time. I was on a long, strict diet before these spots came. Could lack of vitamins be the cause? Mrs. T., New York.

ANSWER: Your's is a common condition. I wish I could tell you about some vitamin that would do the trick—unfortunately, I don't think there is a connection between diet, vitamins and the little eye spots.

To be blunt, either they will go away or you will have to get used to them. (How patients hate such advice! And I can understand why.)

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Get the Snooze Habit," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling and mailing. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, c/o this newspaper.

The Greater Glory

INSATIABLE the drive of some... To always be the first... It nearly drowns their sanity... In endless unquenched thirst... They push aside and pull away... All mortals in their path... And if they're blocked by anyone... You quickly feel their wrath... They have to win, they cannot lose... They must acquire the crown... So they can bow before the crowd... In glory and renown... I pity them who try so hard... Who work so long for fame... For all they have to keep is just... A shadow of acclaim... How greater he who gives his hand... To help a needy soul... And carries out his kindly act... Without a crown as goal.

Gruelling Race

Nixon And Kennedy May Make It

History's Toughest Battle

CHICAGO, Illinois — This Richard M. Nixon-John F. Kennedy shindig which is underway officially may turn out to be the most gruelling presidential campaign of any in history.

The Republican party's wise men have been saying here this week, just as the politically erudite of the Democrats were saying at Los Angeles, that every state in the union is doubtful, and should be so looked upon. If it is true that Vermont may go Democratic and the South Carolina electors may wind up voting for Nixon we do have a topsy-turvy political world indeed. (Economic planks in the Democratic platform and civil rights in the Republican hardly suggest Vermont and South Carolina turn-overs.)

Nixon, it was said repeatedly here this week, is physically going into all the fifty states. As usual the biggest battle will be for New York with its rich prize of 45 electoral votes. Kennedy has already announced that he is going to start off in the frontier states of Alaska and Hawaii, and in a close election the three electoral votes of either could be decisive, although that would be cutting it pretty thin.

However, this is figured as a close election and there have been some razor edge electoral college decisions. John Adams beat Thomas Jefferson by 3, Jefferson and Aaron Burr tied and it went to the House of Representatives for decision. Rutherford B. Hayes was proclaimed winner over Samuel J. Tilden by 1 electoral vote, and Woodrow Wilson choked off Charles Evans Hughes by a tight 23 electoral votes, which the change of a mere 1,904 popular votes in California could have reversed and made it Hughes 267 and Wilson 264.

Both candidates presently seem to be in superb physical condition for the endurance test which lies ahead. Kennedy's medical history shows three operations on his spine, some malaria attacks and a malfunction of the adrenal glands. But nothing has seemed to all him this strenuous year. Nixon once had high blood pressure, but now is said to suffer from nothing more serious than hay fever.

It may seem strange to some Americans that at a most critical period of American history it for the first time has opposing candidates, both of whom are in their 40's. Theodore Roosevelt was seven days past his 46th birthday when he was elected president in his own right, or 3 years older than Kennedy.

Nixon at 47, is one year older than Theodore Roosevelt was when he defeated Alton B. Parker, and also a year older than was Ulysses S. Grant, two years younger than James K. Polk or James A. Garfield who were 49, a year younger than Franklin Pierce, who was 48, and the same age as Grover Cleveland. This is the list of six men who became president in their 40's.

Both vice presidential candidates will hit the campaign trail, too. But the vice presidential candidates are good, but secondary, attractions. Unjust as it is, many Americans look on vice presidents as Throttlebottoms. Crowds go to see the man who has a chance to go directly to the White House, not the one who is a handy man to have around in case of death or disability of the president.

In any presidential campaign principal play is made for the six states with the fastest electoral votes — New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Texas. If any party is fortunate enough to garner the electoral votes of this half dozen commonwealths he has 185 electoral votes and only has to find 84 more in the other 44 states to have 269 and be in.

This convention has been highly decorous, polite, friendly and relatively unexciting for the delegates and visitors. But that it has been an excellent business meeting for Nominee Nixon no one can deny. Nixon did not perforce have to fly around the city soliciting support at state caucuses, as he would have had to do in a contested convention.

But perhaps he is seeing more delegates than saw at a presidential nominating convention. They come in smaller groups and have time to tell him in some detail what they think the outlook is in their states.

The Texas delegates, for instance, have told him that the nomination of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson does not copper-rivet Texas for the Democrats. They were sure they could have taken it with Kennedy and any vice presidential candidate other than Johnson, and still have a chance to win it in a tough race.

Much, the Lone Star Republicans say, depends upon how Kennedy and Johnson interpret the Democratic platform. If Kennedy and Johnson continue to support the Los Angeles platform in toto as they seem to have done they are going to find the going rough. These seem very rose-hued claims but Texas has not gone Democratic in a national election for twelve years now, the last time it turned in a whopping 221,000 Republican majority.

But to the Republican claim that the platform provocations are greater for Texas Democrats than four years ago there might be an addendum that the Republican presidential candidate is not so attractive.

Marriage Pays

Bachelors Play Themselves To Death While Husbands Work

Hal Boyle wondered about this week why women marry, considering what it does to them. He wonders takes up the question of what happens to husbands after marriage.

NEW YORK (AP)—There is no doubt about why most men marry. They simply want to live longer.

A man doesn't marry as the result of an overwhelming emotion. He marries because of an overwhelming instinct—the instinct of self-preservation.

He likes to think he is doing a girl a favor by putting a wedding ring on her finger. Actually he is doing himself a favor. That ring is shaped like a life-saver. And that's what matrimony is to most men—a life-saver.

All statistics show that the best life insurance a man can get to add years to his zest—if not zest to his years—is the right kind of wife.

Married men do last longer than bachelors. They may complain they are working themselves to death, but their bachelor buddies play themselves to death much sooner.

Of course matrimony does do some unforgetable things to husbands. In time their teeth get fewer, their hair falls out, and their stomach looks like a basketball they can't quite catch up with. But it has its compensations, too.

Before marriage the only exercise a man gets is paying his bills. After marriage he gets twice as much of this kind of exercise.

Before marriage he is so lonely he talks to himself. After marriage he doesn't have to talk at all; he can improve his mind by just listening.

Before marriage he is simply one of the boys. After marriage he is much more of a man—usually from 30 to 40 pounds more. Before marriage he wastes most of his time trying to lure some unwary girl up to his apartment to look at his etchings. After marriage he has plenty of time to paint his own pictures—if he still needs a hobby.

Before marriage he lives from hand to mouth. After marriage he always knows where his next meal is coming from—whether he likes it or not.

Before marriage his pals are eternally borrowing money from him and never paying it back. After marriage he has someone who will lend him his own money—and never charge him interest. Before marriage he gets weary of telling his own jokes. After marriage he has someone to share this misery.

Before marriage he didn't know what worried him. After marriage he no longer has this gnawing doubt. He is sure.

Before marriage he never knew why he was always broke the day after pay day. After marriage he can think of a hundred reasons.

Before marriage he didn't know enough to come in out of the rain. After marriage he isn't allowed to go out into the rain—unless he puts on his rubbers and carries an umbrella.

Before marriage he was helpless and hopeless. But after marriage he is only helpless.

Considering all these advantages, it's a wonder why so many single men today still say they don't want to marry. It must be because they listen at bars to the made-up woes of wayward husbands.

The truth is that the younger a man marries the longer he is likelier to live. Or, as even a grouchy husband admits, "at least it seems longer."

To Close Furnace

NEW YORK (UPI)—U. S. Steel Corp. announced it will close a blast furnace at its south Chicago works on Saturday for two weeks because of vacations. The closure will leave only three out of 11 furnaces still in operation.

TURNED OVER TO FBI

Plane Sabotage Report Is Issued

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Aeronautics Board concluded Friday that a National Airlines plane was maliciously sabotaged last January by a dynamite charge set off near the seat of Connecticut attorney Julian A. Frank.

But the official report on the DC-6B crash which killed 34 persons at Bolivia, N.C., on Jan. 6, did not pin the blame on Frank or any one else. It said the task of solving the mystery had been turned over to the FBI.

The case centered around Frank, a Westport, Conn., attorney when it was disclosed after his death that he was insured for about a million dollars when he boarded the plane in New York.

Friday's formal accident report said:

"A dynamite charge was exploded, initiated by means of a dry-cell battery within the passenger cabin and at a point beneath the extreme right seat of row No. 7 Mr. Julian A. Frank was in close proximity to the dynamite charge when the detonation occurred."

The board said that the explosion "severely impaired the structural integrity of the aircraft and after making a wide descending right turn, it experienced inflight disintegration and crashed one and a half miles northwest of Bolivia."

It determined that "the probable cause of this accident was the detonation of dynamite within the passenger cabin."

Concerning the responsibility for the crash, the board said:

"No reference is made in this report concerning the placing of the dynamite aboard the aircraft or of the person or persons responsible for detonation. The malicious destruction of an aircraft is a federal crime. After the board determination that such was involved the criminal aspects of this accident were referred to the Department of Justice through its Federal Bureau of Investigation."

The FBI declined to comment.

Its agents have been working with CAB safety investigators and Air Force pathologists to try to find out what happened.

It was learned that the investigators have no evidence to prove Frank or anyone else was responsible. They have rejected the possibility that underworld figures who knew Frank were involved.

The CAB report singled out Frank for special attention because his body was found 16 miles from the other bodies and the main wreckage of the plane.

The report said Frank's body was stripped of much skin and was impregnated with many fragments of wire, brass, fibers, and other foreign materials. Much of the lower portion of the body was blown away.

Two Hit By Cars Here In One Hour

Within one hour, two persons received minor injuries in separate accidents in Monroe yesterday afternoon.

Twelve-year-old Gary Garner, of Moore Road, Monroe, received severe cuts on the right ear and the right side of his face at 5 p.m. when he ran in front of an automobile traveling north on South Second Street, one witness said.

The driver of the vehicle, Charles A. Brumley, 32, Catalpa Street, could not stop his automobile in time to keep from hitting the lad.

The Garner boy was said to have crossed the street approximately 150 feet north of Texas Avenue on South Second to take a watermelon to someone and collect for it. He was returning from having done this when he was hit.

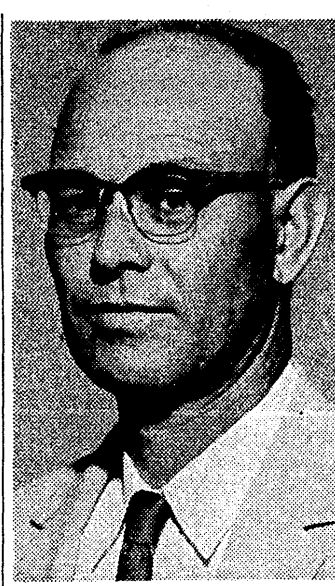

He was taken to the St. Francis hospital by a Mulhearn ambulance. No charges were made by police.

Earlier in the afternoon, at 4, Laura Jenkins, 46, Negro, was struck by an automobile when she allegedly stepped in front of it on Layton Street, at the intersection of Layton and South Seventh streets. Her injuries were minor.

She was struck by a westbound vehicle driven by Vernon A. Tidwell, 44, of 210 Moreland Drive.

According to witnesses, the Jenkins woman had been talking to Willie Williams, 59, 1313 Ouachita Ave., who was sitting in a parked truck on Layton Street. Williams said that she walked around behind his truck to cross the street, and must not have seen the oncoming car.

She was taken to Conway Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for cuts in the lower left leg and the right side of her head, and released.

Civilians May Split State District Area

Jimmie M. Herren, governor of the Louisiana District of Civitan International, Friday reported that a special council meeting of the organization will be held Sunday. Herren is from West Monroe.

Purpose of the meeting, Herren said, is to decide whether or not to divide the Louisiana Civitan organization into two districts.

"This action is being considered at this time due to the tremendous growth of Civitan in the state in the past year," Herren said. The present district comprises the entire state.

He reported that the organization has increased from 27 clubs to 54 clubs in the past year.

Herren reported that following a straw vote, indications are that the division of the district will become effective Monday.

West Monrovia's slated to attend the Baton Rouge meeting, to be held at the Holiday Inn, are Lt. Gov. Kenneth Garrison, Lt. Gov. Curley Ketchel, secretary and treasurer James Traylor, club president Homer J. Lane and members Rudy Hixon, Kenneth Perkins and several others.

D. A. Office Being Moved To Big Room

The Ouachita Parish District Attorney's office has outgrown the space allotted it on the third floor of the parish courthouse. A move is slated to larger rooms on the second floor, according to D. A. Albin P. Lassiter.

Three rooms on the second floor are being renovated to make way for the prosecuting attorney's department.

Police jury president M. W. Montgomery said that the jury had approved the switch and is financing renovation work.

Work probably will be completed by late August. Lassiter hopes to move in by the first of September.

He, two assistant district attorneys H. S. Parker and Gilbert Brown, and two deputy clerks of Court will occupy the offices previously used by juvenile officer Buster Crowley, supervisor of public funds M. O. Reeves, and the grand jury.

Juvenile officers Mrs. Willie Harris and Crowley will move up to the offices vacated by Lassiter. Reeves will switch to second floor office occupied now by Mrs. Harris, and the grand jury which normally meets two weeks per year will hold its sessions in the police jury meeting room.

New doors costing approximately $350, a new tile floor, estimated cost $200, and new ceiling will be installed in the office slated for the D.A., according to Montgomery.

The office and the police jury room will be air conditioned next year.

Court reporter Billy Downey, who currently occupies an office with Parker, will remain on the third floor. The district judges' offices also will be left on the third floor.

Construction Of Levee For Ouachita Sought

S. C. Smith, Department of Public Works district engineer, said Friday means of constructing a levee along the Ouachita River in the southern part of the parish are being sought to prevent flooding such as that during the 1959 high water period.

He said preliminary surveys have been made. Principal problem at present is drainage, Smith said.

Smith said a ring-type levee appears most feasible. He said the levee, if constructed in the manner, would be built from the west end of the Bawconville ring levee and run south to the mouth of Cheniere Creek in ward eight and curve back to Cheniere Lake dam, providing protection for parts of wards five and eight.

The survey was requested by Ouachita Rep. Lawrence Gibbs, who reported that if the project appears feasible, support would be sought from the Tensas River Basin District, the Department of Public Works and the Federal Government.

Youth Gets Life In Assault Case

GRENADA, Miss. (UPI)—A white youth convicted of raping a 16-year-old Negro girl has been sentenced to life imprisonment after an all-white jury altered its verdict to eliminate the death penalty.

L. J. Loden, 19, was sentenced by Judge Henry Lee Rodgers for attacking the girl after picking her up at her home on the pretext of hiring her as a maid.

The jury returned a "guilty as charged" verdict after his one-day trial Wednesday—a verdict which brings an automatic death penalty. Rodgers recalled the jury to change the penalty Thursday on grounds some members did not realize their first verdict meant death for Loden.

No white person in Mississippi has been executed for raping a Negro in recent years.

Lassiter Plans Course Talks

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—

Camille F. Gravel's Louisiana's ex-Democratic National commit- teeman, said Friday it's up to Gov. Jimmie H. Davis to decide if presidential electors pledged to the Democratic National ticket run under the traditional rooster label in November.

Whether the Kennedy-Johnson ticket gets the rooster "will depend primarily on what influence Gov. Davis exerts on the state central Democratic committee," Gravel said.

Good Samaritan Asks No Rent, Ends Up In Red

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A woman who said she was "too soft-hearted" to collect full rent from tenants in financial trouble has been indicted on charges of defrauding the White Plains Housing Authority of more than $45,000.

Dist. Atty. Joseph F. Gagliardi said there was no evidence that the woman, a former project manager of the authority, received any of the money.

The defendant, Leslie McQueen Waugh, 42, is the wife of William E. Waugh, a private detective.

After she was indicted by a Grand Jury Thursday, her lawyer, Charles J. Wallace, said: "She didn't get a cent. The trouble was that she was such a Samaritan she didn't like to collect from people in financial trouble."

The indictment charges Mrs. Waugh with destruction and falsification of public records, neglect of duty, official misconduct, misapplication of public funds, conspiracy and forgery.

U.S. To Launch Crews In Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The space agency disclosed plans Friday to launch three-man Project Apollo space crews by 1966 into earth-orbit journeys lasting from two weeks to two months.

Even more ambitiously, a lighter-weight version of the same Apollo spacecraft somewhat later may be sent on a week-long assignment around the moon and back.

But there's no plan for a man-on-the-moon project before 1970.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also plans to land a truck-mounted robot laboratory gently on the face of the moon, and move it by remote control about a 50-mile-radius lunar circle, taking moon samples. It will be aptly named Project Prospector.

All this will be done before an American attempts to set foot on the moon. Before 1,500 contractors attending a two-day series of lectures on the space agency's future plans, NASA officials confirmed and stoutly defended their decision not to attempt manned lunar-surface explorations in this decade.

Many of the contractors will bid for a share in the space programs on which NASA said it may, in 10 years, spend from 12 to 15 billion dollars—at a rate of more than 1½ billion dollars a year.

This program involves 260 major launchings, including 41 relating to manned space flight.

The attention of Dr. Homer J. Stewart, NASA program planning director, was called to criticism voiced recently by the House Space Committee. That committee said the NASA program

AT NEWS CONFERENCE

Davis Says Long Doesn't Need Tonic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis said Friday he doesn't think former Gov. Earl K. Long needs any joy tonic.

Davis said people have been writing to him from all over the country since he first mentioned the tonic at a recent news conference. He said a woman wrote him it made her feel like dancing a month.

Davis pulled out a small bottle of dark brown liquid, sniffed at it, and passed it around, saying, "Somebody sent me a bottle of the stuff but I'm afraid to try it for a lot of reasons... I might go up there sometime, though."

The tonic made its bow at the East Louisiana State Hospital at Jackson, a mental institution recently criticized by a grand jury for unrestrained lovelornism in one unit.

The governor smiled when asked if the tonic talk was a plot to attract more tourists.

Then the topic turned to Long. "I don't know whether Long got hold of any of this or not," Davis said. "I don't think he needs any."

Davis dodged any comment on what he thought would be the outcome of the Eighth Congressional District runoff Aug. 7 between Long and Rep. Harold McSwain. Davis did say he wasn't surprised at the fact Long crowded into a runoff.

"Long always has a chance to win anything he runs for," he said. "Nobody knows what the outcome will be."

As for the tonic, "I'll probably have to build an eight-lane highway to Jackson because of all the attention."

A woman wrote from Washington "she's glad to hear someone at last has reached the promised land," Davis said.

Another woman, the governor continued, insisted: "For the Lord's sake, get that stuff on the market."

Judge Sentences 10 For Riot Action

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A district court judge sentenced 10 of 16 Negroes arrested in a riot to pay $25 fines or serve 30 days in jail.

The riot broke out June 1 when police tried to stop a fight between two Negro men.

Some 12 officers were called to the scene. They said the mob of some 400 Negroes cursed, threw stones, bricks and garbage cans at police and patrol cars.

Five of the 16 arrested were found innocent in the court action yesterday. One was fined $15 before the trial began when he pleaded guilty.

Big Three Meet Again At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP)—Bald Eagle, Sword Dancer and First Landing renew their rivalry Saturday in the $100,000 added Brooklyn Handicap with top-weighted Bald Eagle expected to be the slight favorite.

It will be the third meeting of the Big Three at Aqueduct where Bald Eagle won the Metropolitan Mile and Sword Dancer won the Suburban. First Landing ran second in both races.

A field of seven has been named for this mile and a quarter feature of the closing day at Aqueduct.

Although Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle will carry top weight of 130 pounds, the 5-year-old is a likely betting choice with the expected crowd of 50,000 fans.

Manuel Yezza, sidelined since he broke his left collarbone June 21, will return to competition with a special canvas gear to keep his left arm from being raised over his head. The Panamanian has been on Bald Eagle in all of his winning races.

Eddie Arcaro again will handle Sword Dancer, who will carry 127 pounds. The 4-year-old, who was the 1959 Horse of the Year, ran down First Landing in the Suburban.

First Landing, ridden to victory by Arcaro in the Monmouth Handicap in his last start, will be handled by Sammy Bouletis. First Landing will carry 123 pounds.

The other attempting to upset the Big Three are Calumet Farm's On-and-On, 13 pounds; W. A. Hanger's Waltz, 113; Emil Dolce's Manasa Mauler, 115; and Sidney Barton's Greek Star, 110.

Ten Entered In Arlington Event Today

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ten two-year-olds were entered Friday for the 31st running of the $100,000 added Arlington Futurity expected to be the richest race ever run in Illinois.

Should all 10 go to the post, the race will gross $218,940 compared to the $212,000 gross for the futurity last year, previously the biggest purse ever paid in the state.

However, the winner's share of $129,098 Saturday will be less than the record $150,312 paid to C. R. McCoy's T. V. Lark for an upset victory a year ago. T. V. Lark pulled a second upset on the track last Saturday in winning the Arlington classic for three-year-olds as an outside choice.

Rated the top challengers for Saturday's rich run were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Intensive, Mr. and Mrs. George D. King's Pappa's All, and Calumet Farm's unbeaten Beau Prince.

Intensive, winner of two stakes and with five victories in seven starts, will be ridden by the hot apprentice jockey, Mickey Solomon.

But Pappa's All, big money winner so far in the field with earnings of $127,123 on six victories and two seconds in eight outings, was a 4 to 1 second choice along with the J. Graham Brown entry of He's A Pistol and OK Chief.

Beau Prince, like Citation a son of Bull Lea, was a 6 to 1 choice in the early line as an uncertain quantity. He has started only twice, but won both races impressively and was classed as a sharp stretch runner.

Kenny Church will be up on He's A Pistol, the Panamanian newcomer, Braulio Baeza on Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, Steve Brooks on Beau Prince, and George Taniguchi on Pappa's All. All horses will carry 122 pounds.

Others in the field were Oak Brook Stable's Oak Dandy, Fourth Estate Stables' Editorialist, Mrs. Henry J. Damm's Arab Road, and W. Hal Bishop's Vapor Whirl.

Phils Suspend Jim Owens For Insubordination

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pitcher Jim Owens has been suspended for three days for "general insubordination and personal conduct," the Philadelphia Phillies announced Friday.

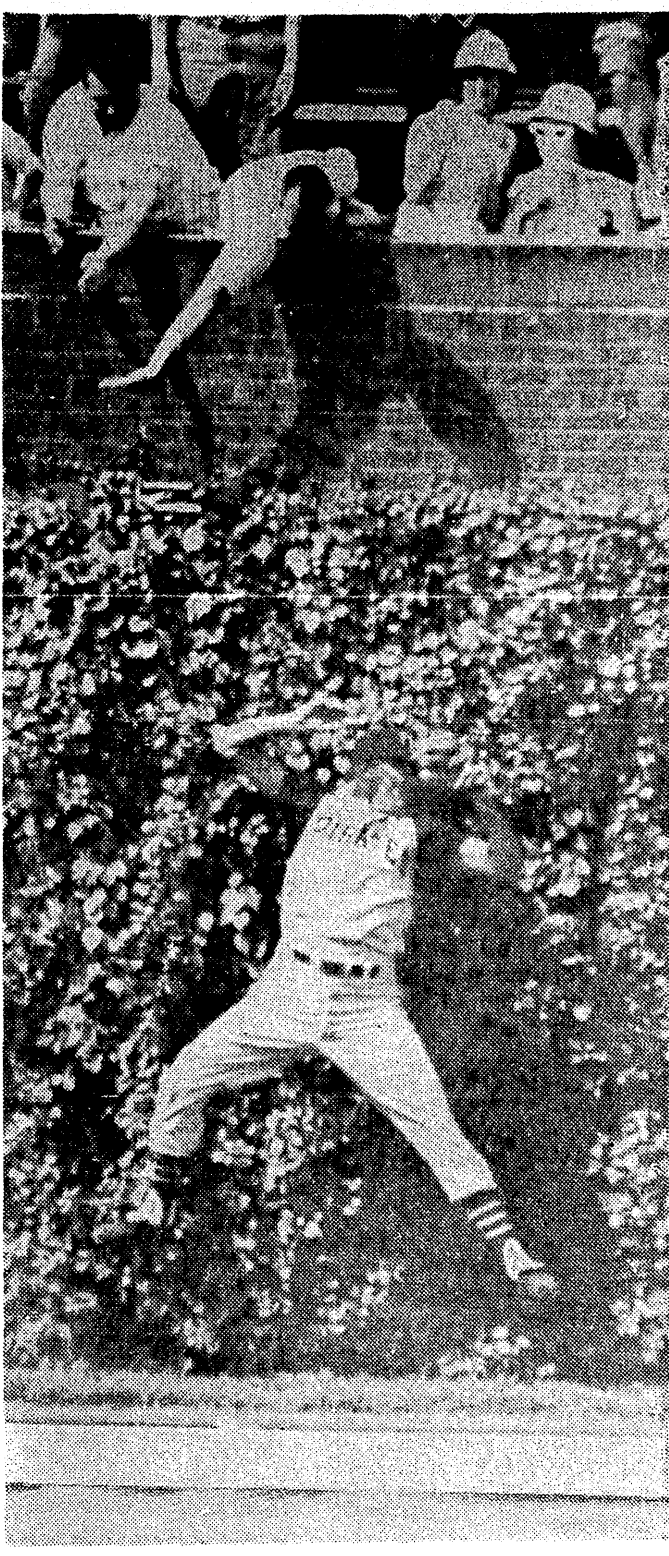

The suspension was ordered by Manager Gene Mauch as the Phillies prepared to open a four-game series at St. Louis.

The reason for Mauch's action was not available. Owens, 26, is a product of the Phillies' farm system and has been in the majors since 1955. His record this year is 3-9.

Larsen Recalled By Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Right-hander Don Larsen was recalled Friday by the Kansas City Athletics from Dallas-Fort Worth of the American Assn.

Larsen, who made World Series history in 1956 by pitching a perfect game for the New York Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers, had a 1-1 record since he was optioned to Dallas-Fort Worth July 8. With the A's earlier this season, the big pitcher won none and lost five.

Accent On Youth Bolstering Loop

CINCINNATI (AP)—The great youth movement in the National League this season augurs well for the future of baseball, President Warren Giles said Friday.

"I can't recall a time when we had as many good young players performing in the league as we now have," Giles said. "It is generally conceded that clubs which can come up with two good youngsters a year, are on solid footing."

"Here we are in the heat of a tough pennant race, going into August, with 47 first-year players on our rosters. Most of them are regulars, playing key roles."

"This also augurs well for the future of the National League and all of baseball. It proves that youngsters are being signed, and developed in our farm systems at a very favorable rate."

"Most of these kids naturally will improve with age and that is

Seixas Gains Semifinals In Pa. Tourney

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—Vic Seixas, the 36-year-old U. S. and Wimbledon champion of another tennis era, reached the semifinal round Friday in the Pennsylvania lawn tennis championship.

It was his strongest bid for a major tournament title in recent years.

Seixas, of Philadelphia, defeated Ramsey Earnhart, of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1. Rod Laver, Australia, defeated Whitney Reed, Alameda, Calif., the third-seeded American.

Laver, runner-up this year at Wimbledon, will meet Bob Mark, another Australian, Saturday. Mark, who is third-seeded, eliminated this country's second-seeded entry, Myron Franks, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1.

Seixas will play Ron Holmberg, the top-seeded American in the other semifinal match. Holmberg defeated Crawford Henry, Atlanta, 6-4, 6-2.

The women's division featured the end of another surprising bid by Justina Bricka, of St. Louis, to win her first major tournament. The youngster lost to fifth-seeded Mimi Arnold, of Redwood City, Calif., 5-7, 6-1, but only after giving Miss Arnold a good scare.

Miss Bricka came to prominence last week when she upset Darlene Hard in an early round at the National City Court tournament at Chicago. Thursday she eliminated Karen Hantze from this tournament.

Miss Arnold will meet second-seeded Janet Hoops, Seattle, on Saturday. Miss Hoops defeated Carol Hanks, St. Louis, 6-4, 7-5. Mrs. William D. Pont Jr., Wilmington, Del., and Billie Jean Moffitt, of Long Beach, Calif., are the other semifinalists.

BUFFALO VS. BOSTON

AFL Sets First Exhibition Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The spanning-new American Football League puts its untested product on the sports market Saturday night in one of football's earliest starts.

The Buffalo Bills and the Boston Patriots provide the fireworks in initiating the rookie pro league's 1960 exhibition schedule. The battle of unknowns could shape up as a preview of what's to come in the next five months.

The game is expected to attract 20,000, including Commissioner Joe Foss, to Buffalo's newly renovated and re-named War Memorial Stadium. (Game time is 8 p.m., EDT).

Likely Choice Draws Outside Post Position

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Little Tumbler, the likely favorite, has drawn the outside post position for Saturday's $100,000 Sorority Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Monmouth Park.

The Meadowbrook Stable's Little Tumbler, winner of the Colleen at Monmouth and the Astoria at Aqueduct, has tremendous speed from the starting gate. She'll have to get to the front from the outside and carry her speed for 6 furlongs, a sixteenth of a mile farther than she ever traveled before.

Charles Burr, her regular jockey, again will ride the daughter of Royal Note who is expected to be the top choice with a crowd of 30,000 or more.

The dozen juvenile fillies who will face Little Tumbler include Bright Holly and My Portrait, an entry from the stable of Fred W. Hooper.

All 13 starters will carry 119 pounds. Two of them are supplementary nominees at a cost of $5,000 each to their owners. They are C. V. Whitney's Honey Dear and Irving Cowan's Princess Le-Yan.

In addition to Little Tumbler, other stakes winners in the field are Ada L. Rice's Apatontheback, Mrs. Harriet Robinson's Dream On and Golden Triangle Stable's Glad.

Others in the field are Brookmeade Stable's Rose, Boncrust Farm's Prominent Lady, Mrs. Edith Dent's Smashing Gail, Tom Girdler's Zonah, and Alfred Vanderbilt's Good Move.

If all 13 start, the purse will reach $115,125 and the net to the winner $67,890.

The Patriots provide the fireworks in initiating the rookie pro league's 1960 exhibition schedule. The battle of unknowns could shape up as a preview of what's to come in the next five months.

The game is expected to attract 20,000, including Commissioner Joe Foss, to Buffalo's newly renovated and re-named War Memorial Stadium. (Game time is 8 p.m., EDT).

The Bills are rated as the team to beat in the fledgling circuit that besides the Patriots also includes the Los Angeles Chargers, the New York Titans, the Denver Broncos, the Dallas Texans, the Houston Oilers and the Oakland Raiders.

Boston, however, will field a more experienced squad, sprinkled with some of the flash rookies that it spirited from the National Football League in last winter's player-drafts.

The Patriots have Northwest-ern's Ron Burton at fullback and can call on Syracuse's Ger Schwedes at halfback.

Directing the Patriots from the quarterback spot will be Ed Songin, formerly of Boston College. Songin was considered the "find" of the Patriots training camp. Wray Carlton of Duke probably will start at the other halfback position.

The Bills hopes hang on the passing arms of three highly regarded quarterbacks — Tommy O'Connell of Cleveland Brown play, Bob Brodhead, who played at Duke, and Penn State's second-team All-America, Richie Lucas.

The starting nod has gone to Brodhead, a fine passer and capable runner. For company he'll have Art Smith of Cortland N.Y., State and Elbert Dubenion of Bluffton College, Ohio, at halfbacks and former Cleveland Brown Maurice Bassett at full.

The exhibition should not want for inspired play. With both squads carrying over 50 players and the 33-player limit about five weeks away, the candidates will be hustling for permanent assignments.

The second exhibition game of the trial period will be played Sunday night between the Dallas Texans and the Oakland Raiders at San Francisco.

The regular season begins Sept. 9, when Boston meets Denver in Boston.

Royal Native Favorite To Win Delaware

STANTON, Del. (AP)—Royal Native, the quarter-of-a-million dollar "bargain," is favored to show her heels to a fashionable field of fillies and mares Saturday in the $100,000 added Delaware Handicap.

Royal Native has been assigned William MacDonald's 4-year-old filly and her jockey, Bill Hartack, chief rivals, R. N. Webster's Quill and Mooring Stable's Tempted. Another capable of an upset is Mrs. Mary Keim's Florida-bred 4-year-old, Indian Maid, carrying only 117 pounds.

The rest of the field, all rated outsiders, includes Mrs. Edna M. Veenneman's Woodlawn (110); Geesche Lou, owned by L. J. Krakower (110); Sidney M. Barton's Sunset Glow (114), King Ranch's Chisosa (110), and Brae Burn Farm's Shirley Jones (113).

Of the Chicago White Sox first 77 games this season, relief pitcher Gerry Staley appeared in 35. He won nine games and made innumerable saves.

KEENE, N. H. (UPI) — Wallace Jeffery of Keene is very proud and is showing everyone his report card.

His grade in penmanship was raised from a "C" to "B-plus" — 28 years after he first received it.

Jeffery attended a reception for his former teacher Miss Gertrude Merriman, who retired, and when it came his turn to shake her hand, he pulled out his old report card and complained about the grade. She thought it over — borrowed a pen — and upgraded him to a "B-plus."

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Nursing Sometimes As Difficult As Formula

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

To nurse a baby successfully him as he seemed uninterested. I just as difficult—at times—as gave up nursing the day after to establish a baby on a formula. I came home and felt very sad to believe that just because the mother has milk for her child all will proceed serenely is to find good sense.

There are ways to improve the mother's supply of milk and ways to keep the baby satisfied, and until a mother recognizes this she is struggling with failure.

Mrs. M. H. writes, "I am 31 years old and in good health but 50 pounds overweight. I had my first child at 26 and he died at birth. My second child is six months old. My husband encouraged me to nurse this baby and, while not enthusiastic, I agreed."

"I followed my doctor's instructions to massage the nipples each day with a soft Turkish towel. I began nursing the baby every four hours after birth. I could hear him crying in the nursery but the hospital did not permit him to be brought to me any other."

"It soon became apparent that the baby was not getting enough food. I felt quite desperate. I thoroughly enjoyed nursing him and did so want to continue. But the doctor never mentioned nursing and I felt hesitant to question him."

Household Hints For Homemaker

United Press International
Glass jars with tight lids are excellent for storing small woolen articles—say gloves, scarves and socks.

Save time by keeping needles, thread and other repair items near the ironing board. That way, mending can be done immediately.

Keep fudge frosting soft and workable while using by placing the dish in a pan of hot water.

To keep from having to search for matching pillow slips, fold them in pairs when you iron them.

Potatoes are rich in vitamin C if cooked with the skin on.

Steaks for broiling should be well marbled with fat. These streaks of fat mingled with the lean give beef a juicy, rich taste.

Since sheets wear longer if rotated, get in the habit of placing freshly laundered sheets at the bottom of the stack when you store them.

To keep poorly packaged ice cream fresh and smooth in the freezer, either place the carton in a tightly sealed plastic bag, wrap it in freezer material, or transfer it into a freezer container.

Give gold or gold-plated jewelry a new look. Immerse each piece for one-half minute in a solution of two parts hydrogen peroxide and one part household ammonia.

A tough top skin on pudding can be prevented by covering the hot pudding with wax paper.

For an outdoor cooking treat, rub a potato with fat and slice in thirds. Put powdered onion soup and butter between the pieces. Reassemble the potato, wrap in foil and grill until done.

YOUNG TREE FARMER

CROSBY, Minn. (AP)—Though her concern for forestry now is limited to playing with pine cones which drop to the ground, 18-month-old Linda Molloy has been certified as the nation's youngest tree farmer by the American Tree Farm System.

Timberland belonging to Linda already has yielded a harvest of posts and pulpwood and 15,000 pine seedlings were set out last year by her father, L. H. Malloy, to one day help pay for Linda's college education.

Linda's older sisters, Julia Lee, 14, and Patty Ann, 13, also have tree farms.

Diets, Weight-Watching Found Throughout U.S.A.

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—City dwellers diet. Suburbanites watch their weight. Villagers and country people eat freely without counting calories.

No matter how you phrase it, 46 million Americans aged 15 and older want to slim down. These findings were revealed in a survey of national eating habits.

In the survey, weight watchers differed from dieters by cutting calories generally or avoiding fatty foods, instead of following a strict regime, either on doctor's orders or at their own discretion. Smaller families diet or watch weight more than larger ones. The study showed, Lower income families are less interested in weight control than those in middle, middle-upper and upper income brackets.

Women are more diet-conscious than men. Of 4,500 persons interviewed, 47 per cent of the women wanted to lose weight but only 34 per cent of the men. Sixty-six per cent of the women who considered themselves overweight are housewives.

"Men probably are more overweight but less concerned by it," said Charles A. Tucker. "Nearly half the men interviewed who are overweight by actuarial standards said they ate as they pleased."

Geographically, men's and women's eating habits are similar until emotional problems or other worries arise. Then, the survey showed, women eat more but men eat less.

Many men said their appetites grow when they're happy. Dieters also tend to eat more than usual when they're worried or tense, while weight watchers are as likely to eat less as more.

Charm School Teaches Men How To Change

By NORMA GAUHN

NEW YORK (AP)—Women in the business world are winning the battle of the sexes, says red-haired Jorie Livingston.

So she is doing her best to help the fellows catch up. She runs a charm school for men.

"Anyone can be improved," says Mrs. Livingston. "Men just have to wake up to the fact they have room for improvement."

As a one-woman corporation, Mrs. Livingston is devoted to helping people do what she calls "building a new image."

"Our environment pretty much makes us what we are," she explains. "But if we don't like the picture—if we're too shy, or too overbearing—it's possible to change."

She works with pupils, including professional men and women, on voice placement, diction, tone, quality, posture and gives suggestions on grooming along with group and individual sessions in "improvising" or playing roles in real-life situations.

Mrs. Livingston, widowed mother of a 13-year-old daughter, had her own career as a professional singer ended by a cancer operation nine years ago.

She turned to giving voice lessons. Her present work developed after a businessman pupil whose hobby was singing said her lessons had helped him in his job.

"I decided to apply singing and theater training to salesmen, teachers, contact men who had to stand up and get an audience," she said.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Term 'Stepmother' Not A Rejection By Girl

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine asked me to write this letter. He says he's too mad to spell it right.

This friend, Louie, took his girl to the track. He gave her a $10 bill and told her to have a good time. She's a dizzy dame who doesn't know one end of a horse from another. Louie is a real expert who studies the racing forms, knows all the percentages, and the history of every nag on the turf.

Wouldn't you know it, the dumb broad hits the daily double and cleans up $330. Louie winds up tapped out. This miserable female hands Louie a ten spot and says, "Thanks, Lover-Boy, you're a sport."

Louie and I both think she should have split her bundle with him since he staked her. How about it?—ON HIS SIDE

Dear On: It would have been very lady-like indeed to split the bundle but, apparently she's no lady.

Spitting arrangements should always be made in advance. It avoids hard feelings later. After the daily double has been hit it's too late for calm, rational thinking.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a beautiful daughter who is 18. She has been going with a wonderful young man who wants to be an architect.

I liked this boy from the moment I met him. He reminded me of the most popular boy in our high school. It thrilled me to think that my daughter could be going out with a young man so fine as Jay.

My daughter told me yesterday she and Jay had decided not to go steady any longer and that each of them is going to date others and see how it works out. I was so heart sick I actually cried. I don't think I slept one hour last night.

It worries me that I should take this so hard. If my daughter knew she would think I was crazy. Maybe I am. Please help me.—S

Dear S.: The romantic fantasies of your youth have revisited you. Mother, you identify Jay with that kid in high school and you're attempting to relive your girlhood to believe them."

Mrs. Livingston's toughest job is getting men to do homework—the higher the executive, the more self-conscious he is about possible family ridicule.

"But I get them to spend 60 seconds extra while shaving, trying different facial expressions. When they comb their hair they can do tongue exercises and work on voice projection."

Mrs. Livingston has some simple devices to help anyone meet the world more forthrightly.

"Listen to what other people say. Honestly try to see things from their level, whether it's above or below your own."

"Stand on your toes instead of sagging back on your heels. You'll look and feel more alert. Look people in the eye. And when you shake hands, think of it as a handshake, a gesture of trust and friendship. It's not a test of strength or a disagreement, contact men who had able physical contact like hand-to-hand and get an audience of a dead fish."

LEAVES NOTHING TO CHANCE

Nixon Works To Present Good 'Image' To Voters

Editor's Note—Most people who have watched the presidential candidates in action expect the coming campaign to be a Donnybrook. One reason: Nixon's past performances in political battles, which are discussed in this second of two articles on the Republican nominee.

By ARTHUR EDSON

CHICAGO (AP) — In this election, a man's words, smile or frown, delight or embarrassment can be flashed instantly throughout the land. And no man worries more about the image he presents than Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"You're the image makers," he will tell reporters and commentators.

And since Nixon leaves nothing to chance, he is conscientiously working to make sure that the image he presents to the voters will encourage them to choose him over Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in November.

This could be a tempestuous campaign.

Both men are young (Kennedy is 43, Nixon 47).

Both are vigorous, experienced, unrelenting campaigners.

Both have ambition unlimited.

Both can be ruthless, cold operators.

Both were so effective in whipping down opposition that they were all but conceded their nominations before the conventions began.

Issues — at least the ones the candidates choose to talk about — are hard to forecast. A diplomatic setback will make foreign affairs the most pressing subject of the moment. A crop failure, or "giant success" that adds to our already overflowing abundance, shoves the touchy farm problem up front.

And although great stress is placed on issues, and although each candidate is badgered for a stand on everything under the political sun, no one knows how much of this influences a voter in the polling booth.

Look back only eight years, to 1952. Who can remember now the speeches made by Dwight D. Eisenhower, who can forget the grin, the wave?

"He's the sort of man," a Democrat once said grumpily, "who seems born to stand up in the rear end of a convertible."

Nixon knows he's no Eisenhower, but neither is Kennedy.

Anyone who travels with Nixon soon realizes how hard and carefully he's working to present an attractive portrait to the voters.

Almost invariably he will mention the Soviets Nikita S. Khrushchev and how he looked him in the eye in that celebrated Moscow kitchen debate.

Then Nixon may talk about how he and his wife, Pat, have visited most of the world. And he never forgets to include the hardships, such as the South American trip during which he and Pat were spat upon.

In the domestic field, Nixon, like Kennedy, has so far shielded away from specific programs.

But Nixon contends this nation is prosperous, that it's growing, that it would be foolish to adopt a whole passel of democratic ideas which, he says, might wreck a thriving economy.

From all this one gets the image, or so Nixon undoubtedly hopes, of a man who has first-hand knowledge of foreign affairs, who has spoken up to a Communist leader, who has had experience in making difficult decisions, who will guide the ship of state with a prudent hand.

Naturally the Democrats will try to destroy this picture.

In his acceptance speech in Los Angeles two weeks ago Kennedy broke all the unwritten rules which say that these affairs should be milktoast and honey.

He lashed out at Nixon by saying:

"We know that it will not be easy to campaign against a man who has spoken or voted on every known side of every known issue."

"Mr. Nixon may feel it is his turn now, after the New Deal and the Fair Deal — but before he deals, someone had better cut the cards."

Nixon had no immediate answer, and probably there's a reason.

He is apparently trying to erase one bit of the Nixon image.

That's the portrait of the hard-driving campaigner who whipped the Democrats into such a fury some of them haven't simmered down yet.

In the past months I have listened to scores of Nixon's speeches and news conferences. Always he speaks kindly, almost indulgently, of Democrats.

Although the mood could change at any moment, this tenderness must be premeditated. For if Nixon is going to win, he needs Democratic votes.

The similarities in the way Nixon and Kennedy operate can be startling.

Nowhere is this more noticeable than in their staffs.

Each has surrounded himself with young, energetic, loyal, capable men.

Probably the best known of the Nixon crew is Herbert G. Klein, 42, his press secretary who was his stand-in until the vice president came to Chicago.

Klein speaks calmly, slowly and always manages to appear as if he were only half awake. This fools no one. Mentally Herb Klein has his eyes wide open all right.

And that's also true of Robert H. Finch, 36, his administrative assistant; Charles K. McWhorter, 38, a legislative aid, campaign organizer and jazz buff; Stanley E. McCaffrey, 43, an executive assistant and a boyhood friend of Nixon's back in Whittier, Calif.; William H. Stover, 32, a staff assistant, and James Bassett, 47, who recently rejoined Nixon to help plan his campaign.

You can continue on down the list, and the same can be said of all of them.

Like their boss, they're eager. Anyone who has traveled with both men can't help but look forward to this campaign with a queer mixture of anticipation and apprehension.

Kennedy already has said he will go into each of the 50 states. Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania has given this description of Nixon's plans: "The hardest, most intensive, most complete coverage ever undertaken by a presidential candidate."

So each voter should have an excellent chance to size up each man and what he stands for. But keep your seat belts fastened. This could be a rough one.

Adlai Says Demos Will Win Election

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson predicted Thursday a Democratic victory in November "with a large margin to spare."

He said any comment from him concerning a job as secretary of state if the Democrats win would be "premature."

The twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate flew Friday to Hyannis Port, Mass., where he will discuss his role in the Kennedy-Johnson ticket "in any the campaign with Democratic way I possibly can."

Commenting on the Nixon-Lodge ticket, Stevenson said "I think that they are worthy opponents... but I am confident that the people recognize the need for a change."

Regarding speculation he would become secretary of state in a Democratic administration Stevenson said:

"This post has not been offered to me by Mr. Kennedy and we have never discussed it. It would depend on my being asked and on an identity of views between us on foreign policy. Until the subject arises I can't comment any further."

He pledged to campaign for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket "in any the campaign with Democratic way I possibly can."

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q.—I plan to redecorate my living and dining rooms. I would like to use gold wall-to-wall carpet and light blue wallpaper. Furniture is mahogany and woodwork is white. Would you paint the woodwork blue? What color should I use for draperies? I would like advice on the manner of draping a window which is at a corner of the living room. Would extending the drapery across the corner to the other wall be good in a small room?

A.—Since your room is small I would suggest a very restrained pattern in blue on white at the window. The curvilinear of the drapeery around the corner would be fine so long as the print is not too dominant.

Q.—I am redecorating my bedroom and would like to paint the walls a very light shade of blue to make the room seem larger. Woodwork throughout the house is dark. Would it be all right to paint the woodwork in the bedroom pale blue?

A.—While most rooms in a house should be related, the bedroom is an exception. This is a private place and should be treated in an individual manner. Indulge your own taste here with colors you like best. Paint the woodwork doors and ceiling in pale blue. You might want to use white and several shades of blue for bedspread, curtains, etc.

Q.—I plan to paint our living room sandalwood. I have beige draperies with a print in blue, green white and gold. My sofa is beige, one chair is in shadow stripe of blue-greens and two Danish chairs are in shaded stripe of blue, grey and gold. Wood is light walnut. I would like to dye a grey cotton rug, what color should this be? I have two Venetian glass lamps in gold, white and pink. Could I use pink somewhere else in the room?

A.—With sandalwood walls, the rug could be dyed to match provided the original color is not too dark. Deep blue-green would be good too. Pink accents will look well in the room, sandalwood has a great deal of pink in it which will be brought out by use of pink accessories. Pink sofa pillows, combined with white and aqua would be good on the sofa with ashtrays, boxes and the like introducing more pink.

Q.—I plan to recover a platform rocker and make new draperies for my son's room. Walls are blue and furniture is maple. The bedspread is blue checked and a table lamp has a red shade. Would you advise using a cloth-backed plastic for the chair?

A.—A plastic material would be very good for the chair. It will be durable and washable, important considerations in a boy's room. You might stick to a red, white, and blue color scheme, always fresh and masculine. You could cover the chair in white and make curtains, possibly even a new bedspread in red and white striped denim. You could use a cotton throw rug in bright red for a bright spot of solid color.

Patent Leather Shoes Stay Out Late This Fall

NEW YORK — Patent leather shoes will stay out late this fall. Previously a daytime shoe highlighting skirts, suits and dresses, the patent leather shoe will be seen afoot at late day and far into the evening this year.

Featured at the Press Week preview of fall shoes at Leather Industries of America headquarters here was a galaxy of real patent leather pumps and spectator - styled shoes to complement cocktail suits, party frocks and ball gowns this year. Many patent leather shoes were jeweled for added lavishness. High heels and sharply pointed toes added to the high - fashion effect of these versatile shoes.

For late - day wear, many of the spectator - styled black patent leather shoes use an underlay of bright - colored leather, often in red or green, to give a color lift to these handsome classics.

Tiny sprays of marcasite are another way new patents effect the dressy spectator look, using the marcasites to effect a perforation pattern on the shoe vamp. Patent leather party pumps also boast clusters of crystals on vamps.

Catering to the importance of brown in the coming season's prettiest dressy wear, one particularly striking looking patent leather shoe is interpreted in gleaming bronze, with a slender three-and-a-half inch high heel and the quadruple needle — the season's most pointed — toe. The heel of this slimly elegant shoe shows a rich clustering of very tiny topaz jewels to give a glamorous glitter to evening wear.

Real patent leather is molded comfortably into the elongated vamp with the extremely pointed toe so popular this season. In some patent leather evening pumps, the collar is cut down to give a dressier line to the shoe. The graceful lines of new patent leather shoes are set upon thin, flexible leather soles that keep spring in fall's footsteps.

USO Still Very Active In Many Parts Of World

By NORMA GAUHN

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a lusty wartime baby with a driving demand on the folks at home: "You can't say 'no' to the USO."

Now it's a sedate 19-year-old with another motto: "We don't say 'no' — or 'don't know' — at the USO."

The authority on that is Mary Vogt, who started as a junior hostess with the United Service Organization six years ago. She has been assistant director at USO clubs in Alaska and Korea and now has a new post in Greece.

"We just can't disappoint the men," she says. "Their requests are too important. If we don't have the answer, we sure find it in a hurry."

On her way to Athens, Miss Vogt, a tall curly haired brunette, stopped over at the New York USO lounge just off busy Times Square.

She contrasted its operation — chiefly as an information center for GIs in the big city — with the Seoul USO club, which is housed in shabby quonset huts (soon to be replaced with a modern building if a current fund raising drive is successful).

"TELLS OF SEOUL CLUB"

"We're open 24 hours in Seoul," Miss Vogt says. "The city is the principal leave area for some 50,000 men stationed in Korea. And the USO is the only place off the base where servicemen can come for a shower, a bed and safe food."

The USO fears much of the public isn't aware that the USO is still very much in business with its parties, tours, community and travel information and craft classes.

The USO answer to whether it pampers the GI is an emphatic no, Miss Vogt says:

"At least half our customers are wise old sergeants who know we can tell them how much to spend on taxis and what stores to buy at so they don't get gyped."

"We also give servicemen the chance to learn about native customs in tours to temples and factories and visits to Korean homes. We find the men are interested more and more in that kind of personal contact."

"With the cold war," says energetic USO man Milton Feltelson, "the need for the USO is greater than ever. The peace-time army doesn't have the emotional lift of wartime to keep up its morale. Overseas especially, there's a terrific problem of boredom and frustration."

Feltelson, international director of the USO's communications

DEAR ABBY

Mother, Father Should Be Considered First

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I love to sing for the fun of it and everyone says I have a terrific voice and sound just like Bing Crosby. I have come up against a problem. Some people say if I have my tonsils and adenoids taken out I will sound even more like Bing Crosby, but I am afraid to take the chance. Can you find out for me if Bing Crosby ever had his tonsils and adenoids taken out? Yours truly, —SINGS LIKE BING

DEAR SINGS: I have it stright from the crooner himself that he indeed has "still got 'em". Do leave your tonsils and adenoids intact and "ba ba ba boo" to your heart's content—unless your doctor suggests otherwise.

DEAR ABBY: My parents were divorced when I was nine. Neither has remarried. My father supported us well. Mother never had to work and he put me through college.

I am being married soon. My father said he would pay for a large church wedding and is looking forward to the thrill of walking me down the aisle. I've always dreamed of a big church wedding and walking down the aisle on the arm of my father.

Well, here's my problem: Mother's relatives say if Dad walks me down the aisle, they will not come to my wedding. Mother will come—but not her relatives. I love my mother's family, but I want the lovely large wedding. I can't make up my mind. —UN-DECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Your first thought should be for your intended, your mother and father (divorced or not) and in that order. Your mother's relatives have no right to stand in the way of the wedding you want. Fulfill your organization and program, reports there are 212 U. S. clubs and 25 overseas serving the 2½ million men and women in the armed forces.

"Half of those kids are under 25 and away from home for the first time," he notes. "If we don't treat them right, they're likely to come back pretty embittered. And that doesn't do them, their families or the country any good."

There are other differences between the peacetime and wartime USO. With more servicemen married now, the USO has added family counseling and housing information to its facilities.

"But overseas at least, one thing is still the same," says Miss Vogt. "The men appreciate seeing an American woman, whether she's 18 or 60."

dreams, and if your mother's relatives don't like it, let them stay home.

DEAR ABBY: There is a couple we know (notice I did not call them "friends") who come to our house quite often and bring their three children. I shouldn't call them "children" as they are more like juvenile delinquents. These parents just sit there and watch their kids take my house to pieces and they never say a word.

Would I be out of line to take the matter of discipline into my own hands and handle those wild animals like I'd handle my own kids? I did the same thing? —HAD ENOUGH

DEAR HAD: Don't attempt to "discipline" anybody else's children. Direct your protests to the delinquent parents.

DEAR ABBY: I have a message for "The Other Woman"—I have offered my husband his freedom so that he could marry you, but he refused. Another thing, we haven't been married 30 years. It was 39. He lied about his age, too. —THE WIFE

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen - agers Want To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Daily Devotional

I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known.—Isaiah 42:16.

If the Christian required a "road map" from the cradle to the grave, with all the hazards and detours plainly marked, he would never take a step or start a journey, for God does not deal with us in this fashion. When we are confronted by a spiritual "dead end," God is ready, willing and able to show us a new way. Thus, we must embark upon life optimistically each day, willing to show the faith proclaimed in the old hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," where seeing ahead for a single step is enough!

O God, give us the faith of Isaiah that we may walk in Thy way, leaving the end of the journey to Thee. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

What Is Wife For? Find Missing Links

By HARRY JUSTER

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Why are some men so helpless? That man of mine is always complaining that he can't find his cuff links, collar stays or tie bar. You should see the look on his face when after poking around a bit, I find them in his dresser drawer. I don't know what he would do if I weren't around.

The Other Half

I guess one definition of a wife is a person who can look in the top drawer and find what her husband says isn't there. Why don't you get him a small box in which to keep these miniature accessories?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Our son starts college this fall and is afraid he'll look too conspicuous. He towers over his friends and, being quite slender, looks like a walking bean pole. I know women resort to tricks to create an illusion of being taller, shorter or thinner, as the case may be. How would you apply this to him?

Women have no monopoly in creating illusions. Here are a few suggestions. Suits and sport coats in a straight-hanging, easy-fitting, three-button, natural shoulder model. Preferably hopsack, cheviot or shetland-type fabrics in plaids and over all patterns. Oxford cloth shirts. A low crown or pork pie hat. Bulky style sweaters. This type clothing should help "fill him out" and give the effect of less height.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I don't know which is worse — the complaint of the woman whose husband likes his trousers to practically cover his shoes, or the trend to "high water" pants now so popular among some of my friends who wear Ivy League and Continental suits. I, too, am of the school of the very slight cuff break at the instep. J. C. O.

Trousers would be a lot more slightly if we could get everyone to enroll in our "school." Wearing them at an above-the-ankle length works out well if you are going wading. For general wear there is one right way and you described it.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband doesn't take kindly to my suggestions about clothes, but maybe your comments will help. The last two times we went to dinner at very fine restaurants, he wore a sport jacket. Although I've seen, wouldn't a nice suit (which he has) have been more appropriate?

Let's hope he takes kindly to these suggestions. For country or suburban dining, a sport jacket won't raise an eyebrow — not even of the most fastidious dresser. For dinner at a more formal restaurant in town, even during the summer, I suggest that he substitute that nice suit for his sport coat.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Hands Off

Have you gotten into the habit of constantly adjusting your tie plays havoc with your collar as well as your tie. Make it a point, when tying your tie, to set the knot firmly in place. Then forget it, except for an occasional check to see that it's in place.

Do you know the best ways to fold a breast pocket handkerchief? Which fold to use? Should the pattern match the tie? To obtain Mr. Juster's free, illustrated leaflet, "All About Handkerchiefs," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Harry Juster in care of the World.

Two Agronomy Classes Slate Thursday Trip

Two agronomy classes from Northeast Louisiana State College will attend a field day at the Northeast Louisiana branch experiment station at St. Joseph next Thursday.

Dr. Jasper G. Hammons, associate professor of agronomy, will take his classes in farm crops and soil fertility to the field day. L. L. Price, head of the Division of Agriculture and Home Economics, will also attend with the agriculture committee of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Hammons and his class in farm crops recently attended the field day at the Northeast Louisiana branch experiment station in Winnsboro.

Presley Back In Number 1 Spot In UPI

CHICAGO (UPI) — "It's Now or Never," by Elvis Presley moved to the number one spot on the United Press International Top 20 popular music tabulation this week. Three weeks ago, the tune didn't exist.

The Presley favorite moved "Itsy Bitsy Teeny Weeny Yellow Polka Dot Bikini" down to second place, it tie position with last week's number two waxing, Brenda Lee's "I'm Sorry."

Also moving up on the list this week were "Walk, Don't Run," by the Ventures into sixth place, "Mule Skinner Blues," by the Fendermen, in eighth place, "When Will I Be Loved," by the Everly Brothers, in 11th, Fats Domino's "Walkin' to New Orleans" also made the Top 20, moving into 15th place, while Garry Mills' "Look for a Star" reached the 13th position. They were the only newcomers to the Top 20 list.

The Top 20 this week were as follows. Numbers indicate position this week, position last week, and the number of weeks on the list. (1-2) It's Now or Never, Elvis Presley, RCA-Victor. (2-1) Itsy Bitsy, Teeny Weeny, Yellow Polka Dot Bikini, Brian Hyland, Leader. (2-3) I'm Sorry, Brenda Lee, Decca. (4-3-7) Only the Lonely, Roy Orbison, Monument. HOW TO KEEP WELL

PROSTATE OPERATIONS

Modern prostatic surgery is safe and it should be considered whenever an older man develops signs of urinary obstruction. There are four different procedures three require an incision whereas the fourth — a paring type operation, called transurethral resection — is done thru the natural opening of the bladder. The mortality is less than 2 per cent, which is remarkable considering that most of the candidates for this operation are over 60.

The prostate lies in front of the bladder and the tube (urethra) that leads to the outside passes thru the center of the gland. This anatomical arrangement explains why the urethra is blocked when the gland enlarges, making it difficult to empty the bladder.

The transurethral resection is the most popular operation. The instrument used to perform the procedure is passed into the urethra until the enlarged obstructing part of the prostate is encountered. The surgeon, under direct vision, can scoop out the tissue one fragment at a time. The cutting is done electrically with a loop of tungsten wire. The electric current sears the blood vessels at the same time so that bleeding is kept to a minimum. The operation is comparable to spooning a melon out of its shell.

A catheter is inserted for drainage after the operation and removed two or three days later when swelling subsides. The results are amazing.

In the other surgical operations, the entire gland is dissected out. The bladder is opened in one of these procedures, whereas in the other two the prostate is removed thru an opening either above or below it.

The choice of operation should be left to the surgeon. Relief is obtained with resection but it may be temporary and the procedure must be repeated in 5 to 6 years. Many men are willing to take the chance because it is comparatively safe and requires only a short hospital stay. The entire gland is removed in the other three procedures, which means that the condition never will return. This has certain advantages for younger candidates for prostatic surgery.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on prostate disease if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SUNTAN PILLS

R. E. B. writes: Several years ago I read of some pills that were being tested on criminals that would enable a person to be exposed to the sun without burning. Are these pills now on the market?

You may refer to the psoralens (methoxsalen) or to atabrine. These are prescription products.

YOU DON'T FEEL A THING

J. W. writes: Can you feel hardened arteries, like on the back of the hand?

No. The pulse may offer a clew but we know now that a vessel that feels hard may be doing an excellent job of carrying blood, which is what it is supposed to do.
